DHANTERAS KICKSTARTS, JEWELLERS EYE UP TO 20% GROWTH IN SALES

New Delhi/Mumbai: Two-day pre-Diwali Dhanteras buying of gold and silver began on a positive note on Saturday with some big jewellers and an industry body anticipating a further pickup in demand by Sunday and up to 20 per cent higher sales than the last year. High gold prices have not deterred consumers from buying on Dhanteras, which is considered the most auspicious day for buying precious utensils and metals.

BIG GAME HUNTING: INDIA VS PAKISTAN

India's World Cup begins against Pakistan on Sunday in Melbourne

CLASH OF BATTING STYLES

While India's management has given its batting strategy several new coats of paint, Pakistan have not changed. While India will look to go at over 9 runs an over, Pakistan will look to build, saving up for a spectacular finish at the death

THE SURYA FACTOR

India's trump card will be carded at No. 4. What makes Suryakumar Yadav a treat to watch is his understanding of dimensions, bowlers to target and effortless boundary hitting | P17

TACKLING PAKISTAN'S EXPRESS HEAT

India's batting approach — keep going irrespective of the wickets lost — faces one of its biggest challenges: facing high pace from Shaheen Shah Afridi, Naseem Shah or Mohammad Wasim and Haris Rauf. India are generally good batters of pace but there remains a danger on a cold, cloudy afternoon

Xi Jinping set for third term as Chinese prez

Could remain in power for life; Premier Li, others left out in major shake-up at the top

YESHI SELHI @ New Delhi

CHINESE President Xi Jingping is all set for an unprecedented third five-year term as he has tightened his stranglehold on the ruling Communist Party, cementing his position by getting the party constitution amended to grant him more powers.

On Saturday, he was 'elected' to the powerful central committee of the party – a precursor to being named the party's general secretary who will lead the party and the country. Notably, several top leaders including Premier Li Keqiang and former Guangdong party leader Wang Yang have been left out in the major shake-up at the top. Both of them were viewed as replacements for Xi.

The decisions were taken at the once-in-a-five-year party congress, which concluded on Saturday.

According to political observers, the entire event was stage-managed to ensure Xi's continuity in office. Close to 2,300 party delegates attended the meeting.

> We must be ready to withstand high winds, choppy waters and even dangerous storms. Confronted with drastic changes in the international landscape... we have put our national interests first
> Xi Jinping

A few hours before the conclusion of the meeting, Xi gave a speech. "Dare to struggle, dare to win, bury your heads and work hard. Be determined to keep forging ahead," he said. On Sunday, the central committee will meet to elect a 25-member political bureau, which in turn will choose seven or more members to the standing committee to govern the country. Xi's closest aides and loyalists are expected to make it to these bodies.

EX-PREZ PHYSICALLY REMOVED FROM VENUE

Beijing: In a dramatic incident, former Chinese president Hu Jintao was on Saturday forcibly removed from the venue of the Communist Party Congress. Hu, seated beside Xi Jinping, appeared reluctant when asked to leave by the security staff. An official then put his hands under Hu's armpits and tried to pull him out of his chair as Xi sat on his chair watching. After a brief exchange, Hu relented and was escorted out

The new leadership will be officially announced on Sunday. Xi will walk into a room full of media personnel at the Great Hall of the People, followed by the other members of the new standing committee in descending order of rank.

Xi, who is completing a 10-year tenure this year, will be the first Chinese leader after Mao Zedong to continue in power, ending three decades of the rule followed by his predecessors to retire after two five-year tenures. It also means Xi could continue to remain in power for life.

The amendments in the party charter say Xi will be the 'core' leader of the party and that all party members are obligated to uphold Xi's core status. The amendments also stated that the party would enhance military capabilities by introducing reforms and scientific advances and embracing new talent. Beijing aims to convert its military into a 'world class army' which Xi says would be done by 2027. P14

₹100 to schools row: Govt rolls back order

DONNA EVA @ Bengaluru

UNDER heavy criticism from various quarters, the Karnataka School Education and Literacy Department on Saturday withdrew its controversial order that directed parents of every student studying in a government school to donate Rs 100 every month for the school's development. The department had issued a circular on Wednesday, announcing the new "scheme" to encourage parents of government school students to make the donation to the respective School Development and Monitoring Committees (SDMCs).

The decision had drawn flak not only from the general public, but also from educationists, NGOs, student organisations and politicians. Many had pointed out that through the order the government was putting pressure on families living Below Poverty Line (BPL). They also pointed out that despite the donation being voluntary, a parent's failure to donate would eventually lead to discrimination among students. P6

Decision welcomed

The decision to withdraw the order has been welcomed by many. "This is a victory of the people. We call upon students to be prepared to build stronger movements when such policies are implemented," said AIDSO.

State clears investment proposals of ₹1.74Lcr

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

THE state high-level clearance committee on Saturday approved 11 projects with a total investment of Rs 1,74,381.44 crore.

The value of the proposals is the highest ever cleared by the government in a single day. These projects are expected to create 41,448 jobs. Apart from direct employment, they will also create indirect opportunities for people in respective regions.

While eight of them are new proposals, the remaining are for adding to existing capacities.

After chairing the meeting, Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai, said, "Proposals for green hydrogen and ethanol production were approved. Karnataka's contribution to the export of green hydrogen from the country will be high with these projects, and the production will start in 2026. Green fuel proposals from Acme Clean Tech Solutions, JSW Green Hydrogen, Avada Ventures and Renew E-Fuels were cleared." P7

6 Ch'nagar villages to celebrate Diwali after 9 yrs

K SHIVA KUMAR @ Mysuru

DIWALI, the 'Festival of Lights', is celebrated the world over every year. But six villages in Gundlupet taluk of Chamarajanagar district will be celebrating it after a gap of nine long years. Reason: The residents celebrate Diwali only if it falls on a Wednesday as is the case this year.

According to the village headman, Maliyappa, the practice dates back to hundreds of years as the experience of celebrating Diwali or Ugadi on a day other than Wednesday has proved to be a curse for their livestock and cattle in the past.

Maliyappa added, "Call it superstition or a bitter experience of the past, the villagers have suffered whenever they have celebrated festivals on days other than Wednesday".

Shylesh, a researcher, said as per legend, a chieftain (palegara) lived in Nellur village, who controlled over six villages including Neenekatte. P7

A Bengaluru couple's dream of creating a rich food forest, resplendent with trees of life, is blooming as 'Vrukshavanam'

PICS: KISHAN KALLIANPUR

Our intention is to bring awareness through workshops related to these topics and also let people experience Vrukshavanam through visits and stays in the near future
— Kishan Kallianpur

HRITHIK KIRAN BAGADE
@Bengaluru

A VISION to behold nature in all pristineness, an inclination to find an organic way of life and diet, and a call to connect with trees! This beautiful potpourri of thoughts conceptualised into 'Vrukshavanam', a lush food forest lovingly nurtured by a Bengaluru couple.

Pushpa Kallianpur, who envisioned Vrukshavanam, was always passionate about all things natural. The 46-year-old dentist-turned-makeup artist was just 12 years old when the thought to produce and consume her own food dawned on her. In 2010, in what was nothing short of prophetic, she sketched a picture of a country house surrounded by greenery, little knowing that a decade later, this dream drawing would manifest into reality through able support from her husband, photographer Kishan Kallianpur.

"Vrukshavanam was our dream, which we embarked upon two-and-half years ago. The idea was to create an ecosystem of trees and plants, providing us with vegetables, fruits and flowers, eventually metamorphosing into a food forest," Pushpa says.

A food forest resembles a forest garden, where every plant or tree is food-giving, self-renewing, sustainable, requires low maintenance and implements a stable design system, mimicking and behaving like a forest. Once the required flora has been introduced, the land overtime adapts to natural changes on its own, with almost zero human intervention, even as it provides food. This whole idea stands on the concept of 'permaculture', which refers to the growth of agricultural ecosystems in a self-sufficient and sustainable way.

Occupying a quarter-acre plot within a gated community at Kodikonda in Sri Sathya Sai district of Andhra Pradesh, Vrukshavanam today is home to at least 150 trees, including those that are fruit-bearing, medicinal and floral, apart from vegetable-yielding plants.

Reminiscing her green journey, Pushpa mentions, "About six years ago, we set up a small kitchen garden on the terrace of our home in Rajajinagar, which met most of our food needs. Then I thought that we could replicate a similar design on a natural, larger scale. After careful research, I found what I was looking for was in permaculture, and I wanted to create a green patch which was pesticide-free, drawing all its nutrition from the earth. I also undertook a course in permaculture design, in furtherance of my vision."

She adds, "We purchased the plot before the onset of Covid. The land was barren, but we didn't introduce any soil from outside, applying inputs in the form of organic manure and homemade compost. Since it is topographically a grassland area, not much human interference had taken place. We gradually tended the soil over a three-month period, planting trees from the scratch. A few plants were transplanted from our terrace garden too. Today, other than rain, our land receives water through drip-irrigation."

Vrukshavanam also symbolises a relevant shift towards leading a holistic life, promoting the right kind of food, besides how it is consumed. Adhering to permaculture guidelines, the forest works in sync with nature, producing pesticide-free, organic and nutrient-dense food.

"Nutrient-dense food coming from live soil is the need of the hour, and we intend to project Vrukshavanam as a model food forest by not only growing food over a small area, but also addressing basic needs like water, shelter, right cooking methods, energy and nutrition, well-aligned with nature," she says, adding that with many birds visiting, there is frequent dispersal and germination of tree-bearing seeds.

This simple, yet painstaking approach, has got several people interested, and the couple had also organised a workshop in the past, involving a naturalist. "Our intention is to bring awareness through workshops related to these topics and also let people experience Vrukshavanam through visits and stays in the near future," says 47-year-old Kishan.

Completing the overall natural appeal of the place, the couple has built a cottage – Shambhala Mane -- for themselves within Vrukshavanam. "Shambhala Mane is alive with breathable mud walls, ample sunlight and fresh air, setting an example of how we need to be connected with nature," concludes Kishan, highlighting that their dedicated natural selection is bearing fruit.

WHAT IS PERMACULTURE?
Permaculture was conceived by ecology experts Bill Mollinson and David Holmgren in Australia, in the 1970s. According to the Permaculture Research Institute, permaculture is the conscious design and maintenance of agriculturally productive ecosystems which have the diversity, stability and resilience of natural ecosystems. It is the harmonious integration of landscape and people — providing their food, energy, shelter, and other material and non-material needs in a sustainable way.

VEGGIE-FRUIT BASKET
A host of vegetables, flower- and fruit-bearing trees and plants call Vrukshavanam home. Some of these include avocado, custard apple, guava, starfruit, papaya, banana, orange, mango, apple, coconut, gooseberry, carrot, cabbage, hibiscus, champa, nagachampa, jasmine, and a lot of greens. A few medicinal plants include amaranth, simarouba, soursop, and soapnut. Most of the vegetation here automatically adapts to the changing seasons.

38-year-old cop Shrishail Byakod, with his grit and determination, has not just shed more than 30kg to win the Half Ironman Triathlon, but is also inspiring others to take fitness seriously

Belagavi's own Ironman

TUSHAR A MAJUKAR/ JAFFAR SHABASHKHAN @Belagavi

COME the last few months of the year, weight loss and diet top the New Year resolution for many and are the most-searched topics on the Internet. But losing weight is a tough journey that needs utmost discipline with the ability to say no to your favourite food. It takes months, if not years, of dedication to reach the desired result. And if you are part of the police force, then staying fit becomes the mantra of your life.

Here is an inspiring story of Shrishail Byakod, a 38-year-old circle police inspector attached to the Ghataprabha police station in Belagavi's Gokak taluk, who became the first Man in Khaki from Karnataka to win a Half Ironman Triathlon event. A Half Ironman is just over double the distance of an Olympic distance triathlon and includes a 1.9 km swim, 90-km cycling and 21.1 km of running.

But success didn't come to Shrishail on a silver platter as his body weight acted as a barrier.

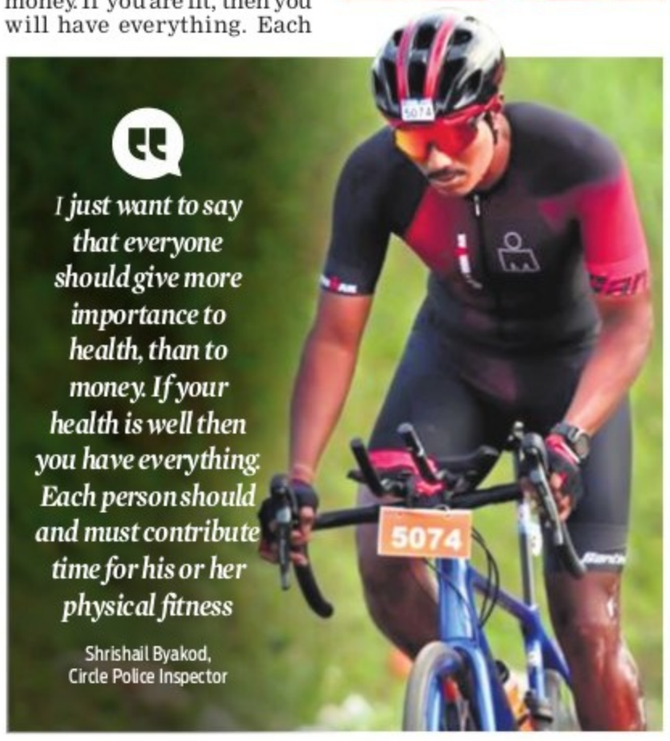
After clocking 102 kg on the weighing scale in 2014, he realised the importance of health and then began his fitness journey. It was during the same time that a few of his well-wishers, including his wife Smita, advised him to practice a healthy life. He initially started dieting and later joined a gym and gradually started running, swimming, cycling and playing lawn tennis.

In the Half Ironman Triathlon competition held in Kolhapur on October 1, Shrishail was set a deadline to complete swimming, cycling, and running under 10 hours. But he completed them all in just 6 hours and 39 minutes. He swam 1.9 km in 52 min 48 sec, 90 km of cycling in 2 hours 57 minutes and 21 km of running in 2 hours and 28 minutes, and entered the Forever Star Book of World Records.

"From 102 kg in 2014, I dropped to 96 kg in 2019 and now I am 75 kg. It is not any magic. I just followed a healthy lifestyle. It happened only when I realised nothing is more important than health when I was 35," he told The New Sunday Express.

Shrishail says that each day he sets aside 3-4 hours for his fitness. Twice a week he concentrates on swimming, while two days each for cycling and running. He has been following a strict diet under the guidance of his wife, which includes food with less oil, green vegetables, fruits, and oats.

He says, "I want to say that everyone should give more importance to health than money. If you are fit, then you will have everything. Each person should and must contribute time for his or her physical fitness."



I just want to say that everyone should give more importance to health, than to money. If your health is well then you have everything. Each person should and must contribute time for his or her physical fitness
Shrishail Byakod, Circle Police Inspector

Shrishail says the Half Iron Triathlon in Kolhapur was the first competition he ever participated in and he is happy to fetch a gold medal. He says he knew that he needed a lot of stamina for the competition and he concentrated on playing tennis which boosts stamina, he said.

Shrishail is the first Karnataka police personnel to win the gold in the competition. Now, he is planning to participate in the international Iron Man to be held in Kazakhstan in August 2023.

Shrishail, who received the Chief Minister's Medal for his service in 2019, has been creating awareness on the importance of health and fitness. Because of his efforts, even the other police staff at Ghataprabha police station have started seriously concentrating on fitness.

NEW LOOK

NGO TO REVAMP 75 RURAL SCHOOLS

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

WITH poor maintenance of decades old government schools continuing to be a cause of concern, School Bells - Campus to Community, a non-profit organisation, has been working on rejuvenating them.

As part of Azadi Ka Amrit Mahotsav, the organisation has joined hands with the Rajiv Gandhi University of Health Sciences (RGUHS) to give 75 schools across Karnataka, specifically in the hometowns of freedom fighters, a new look under their 'School Bell 75' initiative.

School Bells is a separate initiative under the Yuvaka Sangha, a non-profit working towards the development of youth in the state.

"We are currently collaborating with RGUHS with student volunteers from their affiliated colleges helping us in painting the government schools, which are often in rural areas. The colleges are also helping in providing material resources as well," said Mahesh Krishnamurthy, project director for Yuvaka Sangha.

Mahesh Krishnamurthy, Yuvaka Sangha

The organisation was started in 2018 with college student volunteers, who help in renovating schools and teaching students. "Currently, we've covered 13 schools as part of School Bell 75. Usually, around 50 volunteers travel to the schools and stay overnight to complete the work. We're now undertaking only the repainting of the schools, but eventually after everything is completed, we'll also work towards helping with classes," he said.

Only 10% of solar eclipse to be visible from B'luru

BOSKY KHANNA @Bengaluru

IN what could turn out to be a disappointment for sky-gazers in Bengaluru, only 10 per cent of the solar eclipse will be visible from the city on October 25, provided there is no cloud formation in the skies.

Weathermen and officials from India Meteorological Department (IMD) have forecast cloudy sky, without rain, from October 24 to 25, 2022.

Furthermore, Jawaharlal Nehru Planetarium in Bengaluru have made it clear that the eclipse will not be visible from its premises. "Due to the presence of many high rise structures around the area which affects the visibility of the skyline, we are informing and requesting people to climb up tall/high rise structures in the city and look westwards through eclipse glasses to get a view of the solar eclipse," an official from the planetarium told The New Sunday Express.

Niruj Mohan Ramanujam, Head of the SCOPE (outreach) Section at the Indian Institute of Astrophysics said the maximum visibility of the eclipse will be up to 80 per cent in Russia and Kazakhstan and hence, special screening and live streaming arrangements are being made through social media channels for people to witness the eclipse.

According to some astrophysicists, 55 per cent of the eclipse will be visible in Ladakh from 4.30 pm. The last time Bengalureans witnessed an eclipse was in 2019 during morning hours. This time it is during sunset. In Bengaluru, it will be visible from 5.12 pm to 5.55 pm, said M Y Anand, Senior Scientific Officer at the planetarium.

The eclipse will be 55 per cent visible in Leh, 44 per cent in Delhi, 25 per cent in Mumbai, 19 per cent in Hyderabad and four per cent in Kolkota from 4.16 pm to 6.09 pm. Experts have recommended people to use eclipse glasses or welding glasses (No. 14) to view the eclipse.

TRYING to break out of the mould of a regular school exhibition, Sophia High School is organising a science exhibition — Evolet — over the weekend.

Among the many exhibits was a live turtle donated to the exhibition by the convent running the school, to show the importance of conserving natural habitats. The exhibition was headed and curated by Class 12 students of the all-girls school, wherein topics on artificial intelligence, waste management, sustainability, technology and biotechnology were brought to life. Apart from the live turtle, exhibits included a life-sized mammoth sculpture, a 'haunted house' made up of recycled and sustainable materials, several AI iterations like a maze robot, and an escape room.

"The exhibition is to showcase various ways of using the very technology that has been a slow poison, to salvage the home that we have nearly destroyed. It was to emphasise on the use of waste products thereby inclining towards a sustainable world," a statement released by the school said.

The exhibition also included 'Technopolis', a concept model of a smart city, which promised to solve problems faced due to pollution. Also on show are are models of a green building, 'Cybertecture' and a Mercedes-Benz Vision AVTR, an electric car.

Subways near Soudha shut due to seepage

MOHAMMED YACOOB
@ Bengaluru

TWO pedestrian subways on Raj Bhavan Road and near Basava Bhavan, built by the Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike in 2010, may collapse soon as there is heavy water seepage from their retaining walls, said engineers.

The New Sunday Express found out that the subways that were built to prevent people from walking on Rajbhavan Road and between the Vidana Soudha West Gate and Chalukya Circle have been closed because of poor maintenance. These walkways now have two feet of water.

Home Guard Mamatha, who is stationed at the subways, says the walkways have been shut for the last two months. Two pumps have been installed there to bail out water twice a day.

Executive Engineer, Technical Engineering Cell, BBMP, Jayasimha said, "The seepage was noticed only this year as there was heavy rain. Due to percolation of water from open fields like Golf Course, Planetarium and also the Legislators' Home, the water is seeping from the walls into the subways." He said, "We can't avoid seepage. We will put pumps inside the subways and install auto level indicators to take water out. We will not allow the subways to be flooded. The work will be taken up and completed in a month or two."

Prescribe fresh quota for PG-NEET 2022: HC

Quashes notification issued by state govt on reducing reservation, and also seat matrix for in-service candidates

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court has quashed a notification issued by the state government on reducing the quota and also the seat matrix for in-service candidates for PG-NEET examination 2022. The court observed that the quota was reduced from 30 per cent to 15 per cent without assigning any cogent reasons and was done in a casual and cavalier manner.

"Needless to state that the state government shall be at liberty to prescribe the quota for in-service candidates afresh while taking into account relevant criteria and to fill up the seats," said a division bench of Justices Alok Aradhe and S Vishwajith Shetty.

Allowing a batch of petitions filed by Dr Swathi K S and several others challenging the reduction of seats earmarked for in-service candidates for PG-NEET examination 2022, the court said that the relevant facts have not been considered by the state government while reducing the quota and the impugned notification dated October 6, 2022 suffers from the vice of non-application of mind and is arbitrary.

The court also said that the only explanation offered on behalf of the government is that the number of seats are more than the number of candidates. However, the said reason is not forthcoming from the minutes of the meeting, dated September 29, 2022. The decision to reduce the quota has been taken to provide non in-service meritorious students to get the seat as per their merit. The said criteria is wholly irrelevant for reduction of seats, the court ruled.

FILE PICTURE

Needless to state that the state government shall be at liberty to prescribe the quota for in-service candidates afresh while taking into account relevant criteria and to fill up the seats

Justices Alok Aradhe and S Vishwajith Shetty

Further, the high court said that the relevant criteria is the number of seats as well as the number of in-service candidates who have qualified to participate in the counselling process. The in-service candidates need to have a better ratio of choice. For the preceding year, the ratio of choice for in-service candidates was better and the ratio of choice in respect of seats was 1:5, that is, one candidate had the option of choosing one out of five available seats, which has been reduced to this year to virtually 1:1, which means a candidate has to choose one seat which is available. Therefore, the quota was reduced without assigning any cogent reasons, the court observed.

Lives lost: Traffic, bad roads slowing down ambulances in city

NAMRATA SINDWANI
@ Bengaluru

The poor road infrastructure, incessant rainfall and waterlogging in the city have affected ambulance services, resulting in loss of crucial minutes to treat patients, sometimes even resulting in some deaths.

A doctor from KC General Hospital said ambulances often take longer to arrive, since they tend to get stuck in traffic due to either poor road infrastructure, constant construction work happening around the city, or even the recent waterlogging amidst heavy rainfall.

Recently, the hospital witnessed 10-15 emergency cases on a daily basis, and in at least five cases, drivers reported to have arrived late due to traffic. They also found it difficult to reach the location on time, apart from quickly bringing the patient to the hospital.

The doctor also said that the traffic police was only informed in cases of transportation of organ transplants and not in other emergency cases. Especially during rain, the situation worsens as the city gets waterlogged and two-wheelers end up parking on the roadside, which leaves lesser space for ambulances to ply and they end up getting stuck.

He also complained that there was no system initiated by the government to prioritise emergency services.

Speaking about the loss of the 'golden hour', another doctor from Victoria Hospital said the patient's health would deteriorate if they failed to reach the hospital on time, and with Bengaluru's traffic getting worse amidst the rain, they would also notice 3-4 cases of ambulances getting stuck in traffic as well.

Speaking to The News Sunday Express, Pradeep Soundararajan, founder and CEO, Moolya, informed that he lost his father a few years back, after the ambulance that was carrying him got stuck in traffic only a few minutes from reaching Fortis Hospital on Bannerghatta Road. He had developed chest pain and was being rushed to the hospital, but by the time the ambulance reached the hospital, his father had breathed his last.

CRUSHED BY TREE, FOLK ARTISTE BATTLES FOR LIFE

MOHAMMED YACOOB
@ Bengaluru

IN a rain-related incident, folk artiste and harmonium virtuoso Narasimha Murthy was critically injured after coming under a falling peepal tree when he was returning home on his two-wheeler at Hesaraghatta. The incident that occurred on October 12 came to light only now. The artiste, who is around 50 years old, has become immobile and is battling for life at a private hospital in Frazer Town. Raghu, a victim's relative, said Murthy has two sons, who are doing menial jobs. "The family's financial condition is bad.

Ironically, neither the Hesaraghatta Gram Panchayat nor the MLA's office is aware of the incident. The Soldevnahalli police have registered a complaint," he said.

MR Shivaraju, an egg merchant, survived by a whisker as the tree fell just 10 feet in front of him. He said, "As the area has been receiving heavy rain, old trees and branches are falling. That day, the peepal tree got uprooted and crushed a man. I was shocked as it happened right before my eyes. Immediately, the villagers called for an ambulance and with the help of others, I put the injured man in the vehicle." Yelahanka MLA SR Vishwanath said that he can arrange for the reimbursement of treatment cost if the family meets him and submits the original bills. "There is a provision and I can get up to 40 per cent of the amount spent on his treatment," he added.

Suicide pact: Cops seek help from cyber team

ENS @ Bengaluru

THE HSR Layout Police, investigating a case in which three members of a family burnt themselves alive on Friday, have sought the assistance of cyber crime sleuths to retrieve data from the mobile phones that were found at the scene of the incident. As the mobile phones were completely burnt, police are still looking at the possibility of retrieving some data which might throw some light on the reason behind the incident.

Santosh, a businessman who was running a tool manufacturing factory at Bommanahalli Industrial Area, his wife Omana, 55, a homemaker, and their daughter Anusha, 18, were found burnt to death at their residence in HSR Layout early Friday morning.

The police have not found any suicide note from the spot. The bodies of the three were handed over to their family members who came from Palakkad in Kerala, on Saturday. It has also come to light that the three had survived a major accident near Athibele on Hosur Road two years ago when their car was hit by a speeding lorry. They were also in the process of moving to a different house and had informed the house owner about it. The police say the incident might have taken place between 5.20 am and 6.05 am. The family had locked the grilled doors from inside before taking the extreme step.

None of the relatives are aware of the reason behind the suicides as the victims were not in touch with them.

Police have also found that Santosh had some financial commitments.

Sudhakar unveils nursing conclave for stroke care

BENGALURU: Health Minister Dr K Sudhakar presided over the 'Bangalore Stroke Nursing Conclave 2022' ahead of the World Stroke Day, which highlights the importance of mental and physical health to reduce hypertension and cases of strokes in the state. He said that almost 70 per cent of hypertension cases were reported in the poor and the middle-class, adding that deaths from non- communicable diseases are higher than communicable ones. The government is taking initiatives to raise awareness, he said. Dr Amit Kulkarni, coordinator of the conclave and secretary for Bangalore Stroke Support Group, said more than 550 nurses were being trained in a workshop for stroke care. Training for thrombectomy, and another invasive way of removing blood clots were taught, and certifications were handed out. ENS

Thief enters house in Indiranagar, ends life in prayer room

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

THE residents of a posh house in Indiranagar, who returned from Amsterdam after two weeks on Thursday, found both the front and back door locked from inside.

They saw that the lights were on, and informed the police.

When officers arrived, they peeped through the window, and saw the body of a man hanging in a room.

Dileep Kumar alias Dileep Bahadur, was a habitual thief, who had entered the house located on 5th Main of Indiranagar through the back door around 10pm on Wednesday.

The 46-year-old, who hails from Assam, began rummaging for valuables, but there was nothing. So, he went off to sleep. On Thursday morning, he took a bath and began searching again for something to steal. There was nothing to eat even.

Police said that he had been arrested earlier by the JB Nagar police in 2006 in another case of burglary. "We suspect that the thief feared getting caught, and committed suicide. If he had actually come to steal something, he would have left Wednesday late night. The mystery is what made him stay in the house, and commit suicide in the puja room. His family members said that he had mental issues," said an officer. Indiranagar police have filed a case of unnatural death.

'WE'RE NATION WITH 21ST CENTURY TECH & 16TH CENTURY MINDSET'

VINCENT D'SOUZA

PROF Narendra Nayak feels the government did not introduce any anti-superstition bill, and says it is just a bill against inhuman practices and black magic, which are a tip of the iceberg of irrationalism. The godman debunker, who has earned enemies from superstitious and religious fanatics, feels superstitions can be eradicated only by proper education, developing critical thinking and humanism. Excerpts:

Do you think rationalism is getting enough importance in today's society?
Voices of reason and scientific temper are going at a premium nowadays. All want benefits of technology, which originates from scientific thought and methodology. But, these are quietly relegated to the backburner, while technology itself is made use of and glorified. Those who question are branded anti-national and given various such labels. Instead of answering with logic and reasoning, ad hominem attacks are made. The Article 51 of the Constitution, which states that it is the duty of every citizen to develop scientific temper, spirit of inquiry and humanism, is not given the importance it deserves.

What needs to be done to inculcate scientific temper among people?
It should be made part of the education system. Children should be trained to develop critical thinking from a very young age. They should be allowed to conduct experiments hands on, and come to their own conclusions. Having worked for decades among children that was also recognised by the Bal Vikas Academy of Karnataka who gave me a state award, I realised long back that children should be allowed to grow up with a rational approach to life.

Coastal Karnataka is considered to be communally sensitive. Do you think the need to instill scientific temper is more here compared to other regions?
Having lived all my life here, I have seen forces of communalism at work here for decades. It was Congress at one time and later the present ruling dispensation. In my younger days according to us, all sources of evil and corruption were those with the ruling party, Congress. The opposition were the Communists whose presence was confined to workers. The rest of the opposition were the present ruling set-up. So, those who wanted to oppose the misrule of Congress naturally aligned together -- this was seen during the Emergency of Indira Gandhi when those opposed to her authoritarian misrule were the opposition. That was the turning point for them and the open growth of communalism and polarisation in this region. The forces fed each other and helped grow.

Sometime ago, the state govt introduced an anti-superstition bill. Do you think it will help do away with superstitions and blind beliefs?
The government did not introduce any anti-superstition bill. It was the bill against inhuman practices and black magic. These are just the tip of the iceberg of irrationalism. I had put forward a proposal for such an Act in August, 2013 in a public meeting protesting the assassination of Dhabolkar. Later, the demand grew. But the bill leaves a lot to be desired, but as I always said, something is better than nothing. Superstitions can be eradicated only by proper education, developing critical thinking and humanism. Anyway the act is just in books.

Do you think educational institutions and authorities are doing enough to instill scientific temper among people?
No. Like it is said -- one who pays the piper calls the tune, which can be modified as one who pays the grants. That is always the ruling party. The whole system of education would be dancing to their tunes. Even the rational elements in textbooks have been modified. While banning things like hijab alleging that religious practices have no place in the classroom, such restrictions should be applied to all such practices, including prayers and religious ceremonies in schools and public places. While having a religious belief is one's fundamental right, all such should be practised in private places -- which should apply for all things starting from offering namaz on public roads to building pandals for pujas obstructing traffic. When noise pollution is that, whichever religious place it emerges from, turning a blind eye to one and trying to stop the other is incorrect.

Scientific temper should be made part of the education system. Children should be trained to develop critical thinking from a very young age

— Narendra Nayak

Is the popular media, especially cinema, working towards building a society that is based on science and rationality?
The popular media is divided into two types -- fiction and nonfiction! The news media should be unbiased and not twist their output to suit vested interests. We see a strong bias in the reportage. This happens because of what I mentioned already... one who pays the piper calls the tune. One playing the tune, those listening and the milieu it is played to are all conditioned by the communal, majoritarian propaganda. Fiction like TV serials and movies should be strictly considered as that and not confused with reality. A society in which such distinctions are blurred becomes prey to events shown in movies. In reportage, ethics prescribe that all points of view should be given an opportunity which is rarely done. In case of fiction, a viewer has a right to express views. Filing blasphemy cases against such people to silence their voices is not acceptable in a democracy. Anyway, the so-called blasphemy law or Section 295A was passed by the British.

Attempts to reform society through works of fiction have been going on for decades with movies like Achhut Kanya, Patita, but have not eradicated untouchability. Science and technology helps producers make better movies which could convince the gullible to accept it as reality, but not necessarily more rational. We are a nation with a 21st century technology superimposed on a 16th century mindset. This is a dangerous combination. If something happened in the 16th century, it could have probably taken years to reach people if they are some thousands kilometres away. Today, it can happen in a few minutes. That makes all the difference.

Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai addresses the gathering after laying the foundation stone for development works in Hosadurga on Saturday | EXPRESS

Upper Bhadra state's first national project: CM

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Chitradurga/Bengaluru

CHIEF Minister Basavaraj Bommai on Saturday announced that the Upper Bhadra scheme will become the state's first national project.

Talking to reporters before heading to an official event at Hosadurga on Saturday, Bommai said that the scheme has got approval of the authorities concerned, and the Union Jal Shakti Minister has been requested to get it passed in the Union Cabinet. "Once the approval comes through, grants will arrive to kick-start the work. All efforts are being made in this regard. Upper Bhadra will become the state's first national project," he reiterated.

On the issue of rail connectivity, the CM said that the Tumakuru-Davanagere railway line has been reviewed and directions have been issued to acquire land for the project, followed by any other steps as needed. Necessary funds will also be released.

Asked about the delay in the acquisition of 1.7 acres for the Upper Bhadra scheme for the last two years, Bommai said there are some issues pertaining to a few farmers, but they will be resolved soon.

On the Cabinet expansion and representation for Chitradurga district, he said he will be going to Delhi soon, where they will be discussed.

Meanwhile, ruling out any step-motherly treatment to the district, the CM said it has not been possible to give representation to Chitradurga due to a changing political scenario. However, this time around, efforts will be made to give representation, he added.

'Formulating laws clearly responsibility of lawmakers'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru/Chitradurga

CHIEF Minister Basavaraj Bommai on Saturday said it is the responsibility of lawmakers to formulate laws with more clarity. At the golden jubilee celebrations of Hosadurga court, he said judges and advocates must be in a position to understand the relevance of court rulings.

On water disputes, he said many cases related to Karnataka are stuck in tribunals for two to three decades, and they have remained without any solution. This results in the wastage of water resources. If no changes are brought in, it will pose problems for the government, judges and judiciary, he added.

He said fast track courts and special courts are constituted with the help of advanced technology. But there is a need for litigants to get proper legal guidance and cooperation at the grassroots level.

Bommai said disputes are increasing in society and people are spending more time to get justice, hindering the country's progress. In the current social system, ensuring justice is quite challenging. But India has the best legal system and it should be strengthened. Judiciary too needs reforms, he added.

Chouhan to participate in BJP's backward-classes rally

DEVARAJ B HIREHALLI @ Bengaluru

BJP, which is going all out to woo backward castes ahead of the 2023 Assembly polls, will have Madhya Pradesh Chief Minister Shivraj Singh Chouhan, who hails from the Kirar community classified as the Other Backward Class (OBC), as the chief guest for the backward classes' state-level convention slated to be held in Kalaburagi on October 30.

The idea is to project him as the OBC icon along with state's own leaders, such as Energy Minister Sunil Kumar. Since the backward Kuruba community in the state has been largely rallying behind Leader of Opposition Siddaramaiah and former minister KS Eshwarappa of BJP losing traction within the community, BJP is looking at attracting hundred OBC communities, other than Kurubas, including the Savitha Samaj, Madivala, goldsmiths, blacksmiths, carpenters, Kuruhina Shetty and others. "Weavers play a decisive role in as many as 62 Assembly constituencies and we are going to organise them for the party," BJP chief spokesperson MG Mahesh told The New Sunday Express. He said over five lakh people from across the state from every 224 Assembly constituencies will be taking part in the mega event. A train that departs from Mysuru to Kalaburagi on the eve of October 30 will have seven additional bogies. Grassroots party workers have voluntarily booked the tickets of participants by paying Rs 800 per head.

Shettar was addressing a gathering during his 46th birthday celebration in Badami on Saturday. "In the last four years, Siddaramaiah delivered the promises he made to the people by bringing thousands of crores in terms of grants for the various development works of the historical town," he claimed. "If Siddaramaiah is re-elected from Badami in the upcoming Assembly polls, he will bring more development," added Shettar.

Dalit groups express support to actor Chetan in Kantara controversy

MYSURU/VIJAYAPURA: Activists from various Dalit organisations expressed their support to actor-turned-activist Chetan Kumar after right wing members slammed him for claiming that Bhoota Kola, a spirit worship ritual practised in coastal Karnataka and depicted in the Kannada movie Kantara, is not part of Hindu tradition. Dalit leader and former mayor Purushotharna on Saturday said Dalits and backward communities stand with Chetan. "Worshipping was not Hindu culture. It was introduced by Aryans who came from Central Asia around 3,500 years ago and started the Vedic culture. The culture and traditions of Dravidians and original descendants are older than the Vedic culture," he said. Kannada writer KS Bhagawan said there was no puja before Aryans came to India. "Chetan is true that the original descendants did not practice Bhoota Kola, but it was started by Vedic practices," he said. Meanwhile in Vijayapura, BJP MLA Basanagouda Patil Yatnal said, "Chetan has been paid by Muslims to spark a controversy on Hindu gods and rituals." ENS

Student groups protest varsity serving food from coconut shell

ENS @ Tumakuru

A few student and Dalit organisations protested against Tumkur University, following an alleged incident wherein a helper at the varsity's hostel for SC/STs served food onto plates using a coconut shell, instead of a ladle on Friday night.

An image and video clip of the incident went viral, following which the SFI staged a protest on Saturday. Some Dalit organisations also criticised the varsity for allegedly discriminating against students, as they hailed from SC/ST communities.

Meanwhile, the students at the hostel blamed the authorities, especially the warden who they claimed had failed to supervise the hostel properly. "There are also some outsiders who have taken shelter in the hostel, worsening the situation," they alleged.

V-C Dr M Venkateshwaralu rubbished the allegations, stating that the act of serving food has nothing to do with caste discrimination. "I will look into the other issues related to supervision," he clarified. Warden Jayashankar expressed shock as to why the helper chose to serve food from a coconut shell, as there were spoons available.

Congress enthused by people's response, says DKS

THE Bharat Jodo Yatra, led by Wayanad MP Rahul Gandhi, has given sufficient feedback on the problems being faced by the public and solutions to those problems will be included in the manifesto of Congress to be released during the upcoming Assembly elections, said KPCC president DK Shivakumar here on Saturday.

During the yatra, people said it has become difficult to live a peaceful life because of many problems created by the present government, thousands of youth being unemployed and prices of essential commodities increasing continuously, he said.

A large number of farmers, women, youth and children voluntarily participated in the yatra as they considered it nonpolitical and believed that it would bring cheer to their lives, he said.

When Indira Gandhi visited Karnataka, thousands of people went to see her. The people of the state, coming from different parts of the state, showered the same love and affection on Rahul. Congress will respond to their feelings, he added. "Rahul is the only leader who has taken up a padayatra of 3,750 km. Initially, we too thought that it would be difficult for Rahul and others to cover such a long distance. But now, after seeing the spirit of Rahul and enthusiasm of the people, we have come to the conclusion that Congress will again come back to power," he said.

SENIOR Congress leaders Siddaramaiah, D K Shivakumar and Ramalinga Reddy were among those who had voiced their concern over the order, stating that the department was targeting and looting students. Organisations had called the order a violation of a child's Right To Education (RTE).

On the instructions of School Education and Literacy Minister B C Nagesh, the department withdrew the order on Saturday. The minister had earlier said in Mysuru that the circular was issued without his consultation, but with the approval of the Commissioner of Public Instruction R Vishal. Meanwhile, the decision to withdraw the order has been welcomed by many. "This is a victory of the people. We hereby call upon all students to stay united and be prepared to build stronger movements when such policies are implemented in future," said Ajay Kamath, State Secretary, All India Democratic Students Organisation (AIDSO). Meanwhile, ruling out any step-motherly treatment to the district, the CM said it has not been possible to give representation to Chitradurga due to a changing political scenario. Leaves it to CM Pinarayi Vijayan to drop leaders from the cabinet, says law minister unaware of Constitution, law

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Kochi

EXPRESSING displeasure over the criticism made by ministers K N Balagopal and P Rajeeve, Governor Arif Mohammed Khan on Saturday said the statements exhibited their ignorance. Speaking at a book release function in Kochi, Khan said he will leave it to the discretion of the chief minister whether to drop them from the cabinet or not.

"If they don't want to drop the ministers, let them be retained. I will leave it to the discretion of the chief minister. But I will show my displeasure if ministers misbehave," he said.

Hitting out at Rajeeve, who said the government will review the actions of the governor, Khan said the law minister was not familiar with the provisions of the Constitution and law.

"The law minister says he is going to review my action. It means he is not familiar with the provisions of the Constitution and law. My actions can be scrutinised only by the courts. Ministers have no authority to scrutinise the governor. The law minister is showing that he is an uneducated man and has no familiarity with the law. Brilliant people in Kerala are leaving the state as ignorant people are ruling the state," he said.

The governor challenged Finance Minister K N Balagopal who said a man from Uttar Pradesh cannot understand the education system in Kerala to make a similar statement against the Supreme Court judges who set aside the appointment the APJ Abdul Kalam Technological University vice-chancellor. "The finance minister, whose main source of revenue is alcohol and lottery, is raising the question whether the governor who is a native of Uttar Pradesh can understand the education system in Kerala. I would advise him to avoid making such statements about the judges of the Supreme Court. Will he say that the judges from Maharashtra and Assam don't understand the education system in Kerala? That can land him in trouble," said Khan.

Telugu actor saved from drowning at Kudle beach

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Karwar

A Telugu film actor Akhil Raj was rescued from drowning by lifeguards and members of MysticGokarna when he was dragged inside the sea by waves while swimming. Raj was on a visit to Mahabaleshwara temple, and was in the town over the last four days.

After visiting Mahabaleshwara and Ganapathi temples, he came to the Kudle beach. "He was swimming when he was dragged deep into the sea. Immediately, some people including a few lifeguards and others jumped into the water. Some members of MysticGokarna Adventures rushed towards him in jet skies to the spot and rescued him," said Vinayak Shastri, a resident of Gokarna, who hosted the actor during his visit. A video of his rescue has gone viral. "Thank God, Nothing happened to me. The underwater current is dangerous. I knew how to swim, but it didn't help," he tweeted.

Drug dealer jumps off 3rd floor of NCB office after grilling

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Chennai

THE 39-year-old man from Hyderabad who was caught with over 48 kg of amphetamine (an addictive drug) by the Narcotics Control Bureau (NCB) on Wednesday died purportedly by suicide on Friday night. Rayappa Raju Anthony was detained by the NCB near Karanodai toll plaza near Sholavaram on Wednesday night. The sleuths seized 48.3 kg of unprocessed amphetamine, which, sources said, was worth ₹100 crore, from his car.

A team led by NCB, Chennai zone investigation officer T Sanakara Subramaniam officially arrested Anthony on Thursday and questioned him at the NCB headquarters in Ayapakkam.

At around 9.30pm on Friday, while he was being prepared to be taken to government Avadi hospital for medical examination, Anthony took to his feet and jumped from the third floor of the building. An unconscious Anthony was rushed to a private hospital nearby and then to the Avadi GH, where he succumbed to injuries after three hours of treatment.

Police claimed that Anthony had told his family that he was a software engineer.

He was afraid that the family would find out that he was a drug peddler. He had been arrested by the Hyderabad NCB in 2013 allegedly for possessing drugs, which his family was not aware of.

The Thirumullaivoyal police registered a case and sent the body to Kilpauk Medical Hospital for postmortem examination. A magistrate enquiry has been ordered into the death.

13 months on, 571 Covid half-orphans in Anantapur yet to receive ₹500 aid

CP VENUGOPAL @Anantapur

WHEN the Andhra Pradesh announced a monthly aid of ₹500 for children who lost one parent to the SARS-CoV-2 virus, it seemed like a blessing to those who were clueless about the future after losing their loved one. However, 13 months later, around 571 children in the erstwhile Anantapur district alone are yet to receive the money. Children below 18 years of age who lost one parent to Covid were eligible for the aid.

As per data available with Integrated Child Development Services (ICDS) officials, as many as 668 children (half-orphans) were identified and their applications were taken. Of the total, 122 were below five years old, 231 in the age group of 6-10, 247 in age group of 11-15, while 68 were between the age group of 16 and 18.

District collector gave nod to the final list for 571 semi-orphans

'Budget was not released' after state govt on paper sanctioned Rs 17 cr

ICDS uploaded their details. The process was completed in June and July last year. The district collector also gave approval to the final list consisting details of 571 half-orphans.

Although the State government had on paper sanctioned a budget of ₹17 lakh for extending assistance to the half-orphans, the bills put forth by the the district authorities in September last year were returned as the "budget was not released." The delay in the payment of the promised monthly aid to these children is being criticised.

"Others may feel it is a small amount, but it would have helped us a lot," Aruna from Anantapur rural mandal expressed. Her husband, Siva Murali used to work at a temple and was the sole breadwinner. She has a 14-year-old daughter and a baby boy, who was just one month old when she lost her husband. "We have already sent the proposal to receive financial aid for these half-orphans. We hope the funds are released soon," ICDS project director (Anantapur) BS Sridevi said.

Weaver found dead with injuries to head, pvt parts

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

A WEAVER was found dead on the terrace of his house at Kondappa Layout in Yelahanka with injuries to his private parts, head and other areas. Chandrashekar, 33, the victim, hailed from Hindupur in Andhra Pradesh, and had been in the city for the last eight years.

The victim and his wife, Shwetha, were staying at a rented house in a three-storey building in Kondappa Layout.

Around 8.45pm on Friday, he was found murdered. Rushed to a nearby hospital, he was declared brought dead.

The victim's brother-in-law Bhaskar has accused Lokesh, who is also from Hindupur, of stalking Shwetha before she got married.

Even after her wedding, Lokesh has been after her, he alleged, but she was distancing herself. Lokesh allegedly sent lewd messages to her, for which, a complaint was filed against him at Hindupur.

Unable to bear the harassment, the family had sent the couple to Bengaluru.

The police are questioning Shwetha to know what transpired, that led to her husband's death.

'NO ONE IN 6 VILLAGES VIOLATED PRACTICE FOR GENERATIONS'

WHEN two boys of the Padagur village went to bring banana stems to celebrate the festival, the chieftain tied them to a tree and punished them. Enraged over this Maramma, mother of the two children cursed the chieftain, following which the entire Nellur village was reduced to ashes. Residents from six villages approached Maramma and she advised them to celebrate the festival only if it falls on a Wednesday. The villagers took her advice seriously and also started bringing holy water from Mahadeshwara Temple near Engalawadi, mixed it with ragi malt, and fed their cattle to protect them from diseases.

The joy has returned to the six remote villages in Gundlupet taluk -- Nenekatte, Malavalli, Madarahalli, Veeranapura, Egarawadi, Benthalapura, and Chinnajana hundi. Every house has been given a limewash as relatives and friends are expected. The villagers are also visiting a nearby town to buy new clothes and sweets for the festival.

Another villager Gangadharappa said that they celebrated Ugadi on Wednesday even though it fell on Monday. He said that no one in these six villages, cutting across caste lines, has violated the practice for generations. Another local resident, Chinamma said she is very happy that the New Moon Day has fallen on Tuesday and Naraka Chaturdashi will be on Wednesday.

THE MORON RISK PREMIUM, BREXIT AND LESSONS

THE 'moron risk premium' is a term for our times. The pithy phraseology, a contribution from Dario Perkins by TS Lombard to punditry, eloquently characterises the economic costs of political blunders. Its usage, though, should not be limited to explaining the state of the bond market in the United Kingdom. It qualifies for resisdence on a world coping with rapid disruptions. The phrase 'moron risk premium' defines why Britain finds itself where it is and the price paid for Brexit.

Brexit worsened fragility and widened faultlines. The authors of Britannia Unchained in fact, constrained Britain. The headlines in Britain are about the leadership contest – between Rishi Sunak, who wields the 'I told you so' card, and the return of Boris Johnson, heralded by the hashtag #BorisForPM. The silence about the cause of economic turmoil is as deafening as the decibels about the consequences.

Availability and affordability of money could worsen as the US Federal Reserve, faced with high inflation, hikes rates further and the pound approaches parity with the dollar. On Friday, rating agency Moody's changed the outlook on the UK from stable to negative, citing a host of reasons, including lower growth, political volatility, and policy unpredictability. The causation of the catastrophic circumstance in the UK is essentially the unravelling of Brexit.

THE THIRD EYE
SHANKKAR AIYAR

shankkar.aiyar@gmail.com

The worst fears of 2016 are haunting the British economy. Earlier this year, the Office for Budget Responsibility observed that the new trading relationship between UK and the EU "will reduce long-run productivity by 4 per cent relative to remaining in the EU" and that "both exports and imports will be around 15 per cent lower". Indeed, the OBR reveals that compared to other G7 economies, the UK "missed out on much of the recovery in global trade". Britain now trails India in size of the economy, lags in GDP growth among its G7 peers and indeed is forecast to grow in 2023 at barely 0.3 per cent by the IMF and 0.0 by the OECD.

Amid the debate about the blue walls and red walls of British party politics, the cost of walling the economy has received scant attention. The piety of intent in policy has limited utility. Arguably freedom from red tape and 'sovereignty of policies' was a selling point for Brexit, but in reality, the bureaucracy of one EU is now replaced by that of 27 countries.

The flow of capital –dependent on the sustainability of enterprises – is now threatened by poor growth. Economic growth depends on factors of productivity – principally affordability of capital and access to labour. Brexit, and the votaries of the Rwanda model, shut the inflow of skills and labour essential for growth.

The spectacle of uncertainty witnessed in Britain carries valuable lessons for the developed world on how it approaches the critical issue of labour mobility and migration. For over two decades, the attempts by India and other developing countries to clean up the quagmire of mobility and migration in the WTO have been thwarted by developed countries. FTA negotiations frequently run into a wall of resistance when it comes to mobility and migration.

Free trade agreement negotiations run into a wall of resistance when it comes to mobility and migration. The spectacle of delays in issue of visa (see https://visalimbo.netlify.app/ for a snapshot) carries the scent of political impulse. It is true that the pandemic affected operations but the persistence of delays is inexplicable. Is this the best developed nations can do? Could iSsue of visas be rendered into a new non-tariff barrier? Small wonder countries are flagging it at WTO.

The fact is that the developed world resides on the wrong side of demographic change – the working-age populace in the developed world will shrink by nearly a billion, whereas the developing world will add over a billion. The dependency ratio, that is, the proportion of folks over 65 years dependent on those of working age, in G7 countries is rising – it is 75 per cent in Japan, 67 per cent in Italy, 63 per cent in Germany, 55 per cent in France, 53 per cent in the UK and nearly 50 per cent in the United States.

Juxtapose this to the fact that the services sector accounts for over two-thirds of the GDP of these countries, and it translates into a need for human talent. Investment in technology could perhaps reduce human interface in some sectors but the shortfall will show up in basic governance – whether it is health care, education, even essential security services.

The shortfall in the working-age population will impact governance and growth – fewer income earners effectively means less consumption and lower growth. This will show up on the balance sheets of the economy, affect welfare allocations, and sustaining pensions and will daunt the sustainability of debt.

There was a time when rich monarchies colonised countries for resources. In the post-war era, countries colonised markets. The global economy has since evolved into a vastly complex matrix of interdependence. Recent events threaten global economic architecture and the development world will need to do more than preach about the need to preserve rule-based world order. Sustaining the world order calls for equitable partnership in installing a vision of shared prosperity.

TATA TOUCH MISSING FROM AIR INDIA

SOMETIME in 1967, the Tatas commissioned Salvador Dali to design a porcelain ashtray for gifting International first class passengers. Instead of dollars, the eccentric Spanish artist demanded a baby elephant as the fee. Unfazed, Air India flew the elephant to Geneva from Bangalore. The inverted swan shaped ashtray by Dali with two elephants holding it is now a collector's item. AI's journey from elephant to white elephant hasn't taken much time. Today its onboard giveaways are not coveted collectibles but small-size Cadbury's chocolates, some wafers and paltry snacks in plastic pouches. Once, Air India was a master class in class. Now it is an elephantine folly perpetrated by decades of corruption, red tape, and political interference with staff strength larger than Dali's elephant. Even nine months after the Tatas bought the airline, the Maharaja's smile is a grimace without a gleam. AI planes have the dreary look and feel of their grimy government past. Its fleet of 140 aircraft flies to over 70 international and 100 domestic destinations. AI controls 4,400 domestic and 1,800 international landing and parking slots. But where is the famed Tatas touch? J R D Tata had a vision about how an airline should be run. When I was the editor of The Indian Express, the Grand Old Man of Indian aviation described it to me: "I hate to see food being served first to the passengers sitting in the first row, making the ones seated behind uncomfortable. It should be started from the back".

Flying Air India for the past 40 years has never made me uncomfortable. Until now. The first flight of my life was from New Delhi to New York in 1978. Next, I was to Tokyo as a Delhi University lecturer. But I flew coach. Subsequently, as a journalist, I've taken both Indian Airlines and Air India over 500 times. It was the Atmanirbhar airline of my choice, my home in the skies serving the food of my choice and communicating with me in a manner and language I could relate to. Its international lounges were top class. Its cabin crew was an affable lot offering warm smiles, warmer food and the hottest wines. AI had the best landing rights globally. It is also among the world's oldest surviving airlines. But from 2000 onwards, rot set in. AI was bleeding millions daily, losing more than its ticket sales. It lost many dogfights with swanky private airlines with their gleaming interiors, smart stewardesses and delectable cuisine and drinks list. Its food became unpalatable; its ground staff surly, intolerant and arrogant—Air India has 15000 employees. Many governments made feeble attempts to leave the aviation business. Finally, in January 2022, the Tatas won the bid. While taking charge, N Chandrasekharan, Chairman, Tata Sons said: "We are excited to have Air India back in the Tata group and are committed to making this a world-class airline. I warmly welcome all the employees of Air India to our group and look forward to working together."

Since the House of Tatas enjoys a sterling global reputation, the words were taken seriously by the civil aviation sector. The success of further privatisation of PSUs will depend on how the Tatas perform with their new acquisition. There seems to be something rotten in the state of Air India. During the past few months, I've flown Air India to destinations from Melbourne to New York, mostly in First Class. I've also flown Singapore Airlines and Emirates. Air India is still many air miles behind in hospitality and attitude. For example, while flying from New Delhi to San Francisco in first class, I found the flight map missing. While the crew was friendly, perhaps because of my past glory as a journalist, they could do little about the food, drinks or travelling comfort. My wife and I are mostly vegetarians, but the menu was as inspiring as a roadside dhaba's— jeera pulao, a potato cauliflower concoction and some lentils. The new Emirates economy class menu offers vegetable crêpes with sautéed mushrooms, tomato concassé, hash browns, and vegan spinach spring rolls. All top airlines give their first class passengers the option of ordering anything, anytime—but not Air India. During our 16 odd hour flights, the gastronomic highpoint was masala tea, although the food was loaded tens hours in advance and had become as tasty as wet cardboard. Surprisingly Air India's first class menu appears to be the same across sectors. I couldn't find a wine list on the tacky menu card. Emirates invested about $500 million in wine even way back in 2014; the wine list in its First Class cabin offers the rare Y d'Yquem and La Sirena Syrah 2005. Etihad planes have more than one thousand hours of entertainment on their E-BOX In-Flight entertainment, which as the airline claims, "you'd have to fly around the world 25 times before running out of things to enjoy." Air India's unenjoyable entertainment list seems to be the afterthought of a sadistic film critic with Alzheimer's: Aa Dekhe Zara, Agneepath, Besharam, Sahaabdar, Shivay and Son of Sardar. The English film options are even older, like A Star Is Born, Ambulance, Ms Congeniality, The Body Guard, Octopussy, and You Only Live Twice—both Sean Connery and Roger Moore, who played James Bond, are long dead. Today's kids who thrive on Thor and Batman can only watch Chacha Choudhry reruns—so much for Air India catching them young. The seats haven't changed shape or style for generations. In the airline business, seats are integral to product quality. Air India's both first and business class seats are prehistorically emblematic of its pathetic PSU past. Even after getting the Tata imprimatur, AI's flat beds in First class offer no privacy. In fact, a couple of seats don't even incline all the way down. These were installed at the turn of the century by Shah Nawaz Husain, Vajpayee's Civil Aviation minister, for ₹18 crore. Moreover, Air India's lounges are either missing in many international airports or sport monstrous decor.

The airline's New Zealand born CEO Campbell Wilson recently promised to make it "the carrier of choice globally". For that, he must bench the idea of making money first and investing later. The Maharaja's cachet is still alive for high flying Indian business tycoons. For Chandrasekharan and Campbell, the twin challenge is to exorcise the PSU ghost and revive the Tata magic to avoid being a pie in the sky. Of late, India's former royalty is demanding its properties back. Now that the Tatas have got theirs, the Maharaja must renovate and revive his legacy to rule the skies at home and abroad. Or the airline can say "ta ta" to any dreams of reviving its tattered reputation.

UNEMPLOYMENT, MOONLIGHTING, QUIET QUITTING

OPINION
ANURADHA GOYAL
Author and founder of IndiTales

UNEMPLOYMENT always makes headlines in India. As a student, it mattered a lot as employability defined the life ahead for most of us. I was fortunate to get my first job through campus placement, so I have never really experienced unemployment. My generation saw a boom in businesses post-liberalisation, followed by the rise of startups and the celebration of entrepreneurship. However, the political news never divorced itself from unemployment. A section of society was always looking for jobs, particularly government jobs.

Come the pandemic pause, and many things changed irreversibly for us. Those who could work from home now do not want to struggle through the city traffic to reach the office. The flexibility of working in your pyjamas or having a couple of hours extra with no prying eyes around you made us explore options. Some people started working for multiple companies, freelancing on the side or starting their own ventures. Now going back to the office would mean letting go of this work. Yes, we are talking about moonlighting and how it is one of the key reasons people are unwilling to return to work. Leading IT companies have taken action to restrict it.

Then there is quiet quitting, where people work the bare minimum and switch off as soon as possible. I am not getting into the arguments for or against either of these. I find it oxymoronic that while one section of the working-age population is struggling to get employed, the other in a similar demographic can find so much work that they can do multiple jobs simultaneously.

I tried reading between the lines and asked people on social media, where do you think is the gap between unemployment and moonlighting. I received a much-expected single-word reply from almost everyone – Skill Gap. I expected this because this is what the media, skill development industry and, to an extent, the government have been communicating. However, my practical experience says it is not a skill but an attitude that is the gap.

If the skill gap had been such a big issue, we would have never had a successful global IT industry. In the mid-1990s, when I joined this industry, none of us came prepared for this industry, even if our degrees said Computer Science. Most people who joined the industry had studied different streams of engineering. They picked up engineering graduates for two reasons. It was a filtering mechanism as these people had already cleared several tests. Two, degrees helped in getting visas easily for client countries. With most of the work now being done from a home base, that requirement has also eased.

As far as skills required for the job are concerned, initially, we all learnt them on the job. A few years later, in the first decade of the millennium, most big IT companies had training divisions, some large enough to be called a computer science college or university.

In any case, when you are working on fast-evolving technologies, the shelf life of a skill is not too long. You have to keep re-skilling yourself all the time. This means the weightage of your skills goes even further down unless it is for an immediate requirement, and even then, it would last only for that period.

So, where is the gap? In my corporate world experience as an independent consultant and a solopreneur, it all lies in attitude. If you have the will and attitude to do something, there is no dearth of resources to teach yourself anything, leaving aside a few exceptions of highly specialised jobs. I know youngsters who are completely self-taught and doing very well in their careers, much better than those employed in the corporate world.

Quiet Quitting may be a polite jargon for what in my head is 'Sarkari Naukri Syndrome' in India. We want a job that brings in security, assured income and retirement benefits, power and status of some kind and minimal responsibility. This is the stereotypical image of a government job, and the craze is evident in the number of people who appear for each job advertised. Politicians know this and keep promising Sarkari Naukri in their election manifestos. The syndrome does not end when people do not get a government job. They carry that expectation and, more importantly, attitude wherever they work – be it in industry or the unorganised sector. They do the minimal work that keeps them afloat and keeps the boss happy to ensure a salary credit at the end of the month.

In the private sector, organised employment or jobs took prominence in the industrial era when big factories needed people to work in a coordinated manner to churn out the required output. The workforce, both blue and white collared, were paid a fixed salary for their work, with some other benefits like a bonus or insurance thrown in. This model is losing steam in the knowledge era when people can work from anywhere, anytime. So, some disruption in employment models is long due, and we all must prepare for it. Transition times will be turbulent, and our opinions will be divided based on how the transition impacts our status quo.

An attitude to continuously learn and adapt will keep you afloat in the coming times. Those with an attitude to learn ahead of the curve will thrive the most. Hopefully, it will lead to an era of knowledge-driven wisdom.

Popularising EVs

Apropos 'Striking balance between growth and sustainability' (Oct 21), electric vehicles are not yet fully developed to provide the necessary facilities like covering long distances, adequate battery charging points and short time taken for battery charging , low price, etc. But currently available EVs are almost harmless for human health and they pollute less too. Better motors, better batteries with current density and long life , inverters with low current consuming and providing the required power to the motors and sufficient charging points for the batteries are the essential criteria for EVs of the future. If these conditions are met, the ESG will become easier to execute.

Medicine course in Hindi

Under the New Education Policy, the government is planning to start technical and medical courses in regional languages ('Tread cautiously on MBBS in mother tongue). This decision seems more to do with emotional appeal than enhancing the skills of students. Experts in support of the new policy quote the example of Russia, Japan and China, where English is replaced by one national language. In our country, there are numerous regional languages. Also, no preparation has been made for the translation of research journals and papers from English to other languages.

Himachal fight narrows down to BJP vs Cong

AAP seems out of contest, fails to make inroads across the state

HARPREET BAJWA @ New Delhi

Congress candidate from Shimla Urban constituency Harish Janartha takes part in a procession before filiing his nomination papers in Shimla on Friday | PTI

THE electoral contest is narrowing down between Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) and Congress in the Himachal Pradesh assembly election as Aam Aadmi Party (AAP) has not been able to make any inroads in the hill state. With approximately 2.25 lakh government employees in the state, around 1.5 lakh employees are under the New Pension Scheme, making the Old Pension Scheme (OPS) and unemployment major issues in these polls slated for November 12. Other factors that the voters have in mind are governance, sharp rise in the cost of apple production and inflation.

The ruling government has refrained from promising the restoration of the OPS, stating that the best possible has already been done for the employees considering the current financial health of the state. But oppositions, which have stood for the assembly elections in the hill state for the first time, have reiterated their promise to restore OPS if voted to power. It is believed that the OPS will entail an additional annual burden of around Rs 600 crore on the state exchequer.

With unemployment becoming an issue in these elections in Himachal again, parties have promised 75 per cent of jobs to the locals in the industrial sector. As per the figures with the department of labour and employment, the number of registered unemployed youth in the state was a staggering 8,77,507 as on March 31, 2022 which is more than 12 per cent of the total population of the state.

Moreover, the apple agitation has resurfaced in the state after three decades and is believed to be a key issue. For the last few months, the apple growers have been holding demonstrations due to six per cent increase in GST on cartons, coupled with a sharp rise in the rate of trays used inside the boxes that increase the production costs.

Talking with this newspaper, a political analyst BD Sharma said, "The Old OPS, unemployment and good governance are major issues in these assembly election besides the apple agitation, which has resurfaced in the state due to the increase in prices of fertilisers and pesticides." "It is a tight contest between traditional rivals BJP and Congress and AAP is nowhere in the picture. Both BJP and Congress come to power every five years in Himachal alternatively," he added.

Rebels, anti-incumbency threaten BJP's prospects

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @ New Delhi

THE ruling BJP in Himachal Pradesh is faced with twin odds. The first is no party has ruled the state consecutively for two terms. The second is that the party in its own estimate faces anti-incumbency in at least 11 constituencies where its sitting MLAs have been denied the nomination. The two factors are significant even though the Opposition finds itself in disarray.

> We have been voting for the BJP due to its promise to deliver on the employment front. However, this time, the general perception is to vote for a party that will genuinely work to generate more jobs
>
> Pramod Kumar, A Himachal resident

Burning issues such as unemployment and inflation are set to be the driving force behind the Congress campaign in the face of dissatisfaction among the voters.

"We have been voting for the BJP due to its promise to deliver on the employment front. However, this time, the general perception is to vote for a party that will genuinely work to generate more jobs," says Pramod Kumar, an ice cream vendor in Delhi who lives in Chamba district of the state and has voted in all elections in the state so far.

Mohan, 35, who comes from Kinnaur district and sells dry fruits in the national capital, echoes a similar sentiment. "The BJP counts on the popularity of PM Modi, who often calls Himachal Pradesh his second home. However, people ask as to what the state BJP has done on the ground in the state," he said.

"People like me have no alternative but vote for the ruling BJP.

Nirmal Thakur, 30, works in a Noida-based MNC and comes from a hill village in Mandi district of the state. He says BJP rebels could also queer the pitch for the party.

DAYA BAI

A FIGHTER OF ENDLESS CAUSES FOR TRIBALS AND POOR

RAJESH ABRAHAM @ Kochi

SOURAV ROY

MERCY means 'Daya' in Malayalam. For Mercy Mathew, born into a landed Christian family in the rubber belt of Pala in Kerala in 1940, her journey to Daya Bai, as she's now known, however, was not as simple. Having devoted over six decades of her life working and living among Gondi tribals in Madhya Pradesh's Chhindwara district, 82-year-old Bai had been at the forefront for several causes over the years — serving the refugees during the Bangladesh war, and the umpteen struggles for the upliftment of the tribals she led in different parts of the country.

Bai, however, had rarely taken up any causes in her home state. She had taken a vow not to return to her home (and home state) when she set off to become a nun at the age of 16 in a convent at Hazaribag, Jharkhand (then Bihar), before finding her calling among tribals of Madhya Pradesh. When her father died, her family waited for five days with the body for his darling daughter to have one final goodbye. But Bai did not turn up.

But she led a solo indefinite hunger strike outside the state secretariat in Thiruvananthapuram demanding better healthcare facilities for the endosulfan victims of Kasaragod, Kerala's northernmost district, nearly 600 km from the state capital. Her strike for endosulfan victims began aptly on Gandhi Jayanthi day and it lasted for 17 days. Bai, who looks every inch a tribal woman (she even changed her attire to look like a tribal some 42 years back), ended her strike last week sipping the water offered by two women ministers of the Pinarayi Vijayan cabinet. This followed a written assurance by the Left government that better treatment and care would be provided for the endosulfan pesticide victims of Kasaragod.

"I'll be forced to re-launch my agitation if the government fails to implement the assurances they gave me. Each of their assurances have a fixed time frame for implementation as per the written assurance," Bai told this newspaper.

Endosulfan tragedy related to the spraying of the insecticide endosulfan — a highly potent neurotoxin that was later banned in 2011 — in more than 20-gram panchayats in Kasaragod by public sector Plantation Corporation of Kerala between 1975 and 2000, killing more than 1,000 people. It is estimated that it has poisoned another 6,000 people. Thousands of children were born with congenital disabilities, diseases of the nervous system, epilepsy, cerebral palsy, and other severe physical and mental disabilities. "I started associating with endosulfan victims in 2018 when I visited their homes in Kasaragod that year. Children are still born with severe genetic and physical deformities," said Bai.

NEWSMAKER

During her 17-day hunger strike, Bai was forcibly hospitalised on a number of occasions, but she returned to the protest site after discharge on each occasion. Her demands included better facilities for patients, daycare centres, specialised centre for scientific research to assess the mental and physical condition of victims and financial help for victims. The state government pleaded its helplessness on her demand to locate the upcoming AIIMS in the state be set up in Kasaragod as the land for the hospital was already acquired in Kozhikode.

For Bai, the end of her protest is perhaps the beginning of something new in Kerala. "Right now, I'm planning to rush back to Chhindwara, where my people are waiting. Diwali is a big festival there, and the celebration among the tribal community is very special," she said. But Bai said her next innings will be in Kasaragod, where she's going to be with the endosulfan victims and their families. "I have some commitments to finish, and after that, I'll be in Kasaragod," she winds up. Her fight never ends.

₹1.5L cr MoUs inked as DefExpo winds up

DILIP SINGH KSHATRIYA @ Ahmedabad

THE 12th defence exhibition — DefExpo 2022 — concluded with signing of 451 MoUs, Transfer of Technology agreements, product launches and orders to domestic businesses, worth ₹1.5 lakh crore. Held in Gandhinagar, Gujarat, the five-day event, which commenced on October 18, witnessed unparalleled participation of over 1,340 exhibitors, businesses, investors, start-ups, MSMEs, Armed Forces, and delegates from several countries, with engagements spread over four venues, said the officials.

"345 MoUs, 42 Major Announcements, 46 Product Launches, and 18 Transfer of Technology agreements were concluded as part of the Bandhan ceremony," said an official.

Defence Minister Rajnath Singh's speech during the Bandhan ceremony clarified that India's efforts to strengthen the defense sector are not aimed at establishing supremacy, but to protect the nation from future threats and reaffirmed that India is a peace-loving nation that is fully equipped to give a befitting response if provoked.

The 12th edition of Defence Expo was the best to date and heralded an era of empowerment for the Indian defence sector, said Singh. "This is the beginning of self-reliance in the Indian Defence sector. This expo has shown that the future belongs to India. This expo has also shown that India will become a global defence manufacturing hub," Singh added.

The DefExpo host state of Gujarat contributed 28 MoUs and one Product Launch. In a significant boost to indigenisation, the Indian Air Force and Hindustan Aeronautics Limited (HAL) also signed a contract for 70 HTT-40 trainer aircraft worth ₹6,800 crore, which was unveiled by the Prime Minister on the 2nd day of the expo at the India Pavilion, the marquee pavilion showcasing indigenous defense products.

SC asks former Amrapali director Shiva to surrender before Nov 7

SHRUTI KAKKAR @ New Delhi

THE Supreme Court in a special hearing on Saturday extended the interim bail granted to ex-director of Amrapali Shiva Priya for a period of two weeks. A bench led by CJI UU Lalit and Justice Bela M Trivedi asked him to surrender on or before November 7 before CMM East Karkardooma Court.

"Since the medical condition of the petitioner's daughter has improved, the protection of interim bail is withdrawn. He shall surrender on or before November 7 before CMM East Karkardooma and shall be taken in custody immediately. Upon such surrender the bail bond executed during interim bail shall stand discharged," the court said in its order.

On August 22, the bench had granted interim bail to Shiva Priya for the treatment of his daughter, who was suffering from a medical condition.

Seeking bail, Senior Advocate Ranjit Kumar for Shiva Priya submitted that out of the 30 cases registered against him, he was granted bail in six cases under IPC for the offence of cheating. He further submitted that he was also accused of cases under PMLA and that a trial has been going on in that matter. Kumar further told the court that Shiva Priya's bail in money laundering case was rejected by the lower court and he intends to challenge rejection before HC.

CJI UU Lalit at this juncture said, "If we grant bail as the highest court of land, then the PMLA court will also be influenced by that. In the PMLA case, the public prosecutor has to be put to notice. What we can do at best is this: grant liberty to file an application before court & extend your interim bail 2 weeks & after that you'll have to surrender."

Taking into consideration that former Amrapali director Anil Kumar Sharma had to undergo eye surgery due to complications arising out of hernia, the bench extended the interim bail which was granted by court on August 8 till the matter is taken up for hearing. The court said that the extension of interim bail to Anil Sharma would be for the appropriate period on medical grounds and would be determined on the basis of his medical condition.

SC to hear plea on guidelines for docs' protection

The SC on Friday agreed to examine the circumstances behind the rising attacks and criminal cases registered against doctors by aggrieved patients and their relatives by issuing notice in a plea seeking guidelines for the protection of doctors. A bench of CJI UU Lalit and Justice Bela M Trivedi issued notice to centre, Medical Council of India and Rajasthan government. "It is submitted that facts presented in the instant case do make out a case for interference and therefore effective directions may be passed by this Court. Issue notice returnable on 23.11.2022," the bench said in its order. The petition was filed against the backdrop of suicide committed by a doctor Archana Sharma in Rajasthan's earlier this year.

Ministry shoots short films in foreign languages to ramp up tourism drive

PARVEZ SULTAN @ New Delhi

AS part of its mega drive to promote India as 'round the year preferred destination', the ministry of tourism has prepared short promotional videos under its 'Incredible India' brand in nine foreign languages including Russian, Korean, Thai, Japanese, Italian, German, Spanish, French and Arabic. Each language has two versions — 30 seconds and the longer version is 60 seconds.

According to the officials, promos will effectively be pushed on all social media platforms. "Since the launch of 'Incredible India' campaign, the ministry has been carrying out promotional activities in all major foreign languages; be it creative in print or digital medium and promotional films. For specific markets, the ministry uses different language. Newly released videos will extensively be used on all social media platforms," said official of the tourism ministry, who is privy to publicity and promotion campaigns.

Earlier, the ministry released promotion brochures for Unesco World heritage sites --Great Himalayan national Park Conservation Area, Mahabodhi Temple, Manas Wildlife Sanctuary, Rock Shelters of Bhimbetka, Champaner Pavagadh Archeological Park, and Ramappa Temple.

When the Government resumed tourist visas for oversees tourists after a gap of two years in March, it launched 'Namaste World India'—India Welcome You-- reopening creative series, which featured Hampi (Karnataka), Jaisalmer desert (Rajasthan), Varansai (Uttar Pradesh), Golden Temple (Punjab), Jaipur (Rajasthan), Nanda Devi and valley of flower (Uttrakhand).

The top 10 countries from where India received maximum tourists during 2021 are the United States, Bangladesh, United Kingdom, Canada, Nepal, Afghanistan, Australia, Germany, Portugal, and France.

With the domestic tourism reviving post Covid pandemic, the ministry is working on to strengthen its campaigns and media planning through new strategies and promotion activities. The focus is on its flagship campaigns such as Incredible India and Dekho Apna Desh (explore own country), an initiative to urge Indian citizens to visit different places.

The ongoing exercise to spruce up Incredible India campaign is in accordance with the directives of the Prime Minister Narendra Modi to transform its website on par with the best tourism portals of the world.

To achieve the target, the ministry will engage a private agency to seek advice on various aspects relating to planning — strategic and tactical — and also formulation of digital media strategy.

Shah's focus on south Guj in 5-day trip

Discusses with functionaries how to better BJP's 2017 tally of 25 out of 35 seats in the area

DILIP SINGH KSHATRIYA
@ Ahmedabad

HOME Minister Amit Shah, who is also the chief poll strategist of the BJP, has started assessing the ground realities beginning with south Gujarat, where the party won 25 of the 35 seats in 2017, a marginal loss in its 2012 tally of 28 seats. The poll dates of Gujarat are yet to be decided, but indications are that these can take place either late November or early December.

Key districts in south Gujarat are Narmada, Bharuch, Dang, Valsad, and Navsari.

Beginning Saturday, Shah is on a five-day trip to Gujarat. Shah's first destination was Valsad, where he held marathon meetings with heads of various party organisations. Chief Minister Bhupendra Patel and BJP's state chief CR. Patil took part in over three-hour-long meetings.

A party source said Shah divided his time for three key issues at stake in south Gujarat. "In the first round, Shah met ministers, MLAs, and former MLAs belonging to south Gujarat. He indicated to some MLAs to be ready for candidature while hinting at the 'de-selection' of some MLAs. The meeting also discussed giving opportunities to new people in place of old MLAs," said the source.

A BJP leader

In the second round, Shah wanted the leaders to spell out the party strategy to counter the Opposition. "Shah specifically asked questions about the state of preparedness of the Congress and the Bharatiya Tribal Party that recently broke alliance with AAP. In southern districts tribal communities have a significant presence," the party source said. The BJP recently scrapped the Par Tapi Narmada link project that affected the tribals in southern Gujarat.

Sources said Shah also enquired about the AAP campaigning and its effects. He suggested a few ways to counter the AAP's campaign, especially in the promotion of education. Shah wanted party leaders to aggressively take up the state BJP's educational schemes and upcoming plans for the tribals.

Shah moved over to south Gujarat's cooperatives, which wield influence in the politics of the region, in his third round of discussions. Since Shah is also in charge of the Ministry of Cooperation, he also discussed with cooperative leaders the kind of representation they would like in the region, the party source said.

Shah also enquired about the working of the party's 'Page Committees' in south Gujarat and how the various BJP fronts have to work in the 35 seats of the region.

At Ayodhya deepotsav, Modi to light first of 18 lakh diyas

Lucknow: Ayodhya is decked up to celebrate the sixth edition of deepotsav. The temple town will be illuminated with 18 lakh earthen lamps on Diwali eve to create another Guinness record. Deepotsav was introduced by Yogi Adityanath government after coming to power in 2017. However, this year, the event assumes significance as it will be attended by PM Narendra Modi. It would be Modi's second visit to Ayodhya in eight years. He had earlier visited the city to perform Bhoomi Pujan for the Ram temple on August 5, 2020. He will have the darshan of Ram Lalla and perform pooja at the makeshift temple on Ram janmabhoomi premises on Sunday. He would also review the progress of temple construction before lighting the first of the 18 lakh earthen lamps. As per sources, Modi will perform aarti of Lord Ram at 5pm followed by his symbolic coronation. He will then perform Saryu aarti at Ram ki Paidi. ENS

In battle for Bihar, Shah plans to visit Nitish's home turf

RAMASHANKAR @ Patna

Union Home Minister Amit Shah is likely to visit Bihar's Nalanda district, the native place of his bete noire and Bihar Chief Minister Nitish Kumar, to participate in a meeting of booth-level functionaries of the party in December.

This will be Shah's fourth visit to the state in four months, including the recent one to Saran district to participate in the 120th birth anniversary of socialist icon Jayaprakash Narayan. In September, Shah had visited Purnia and Kishanganj districts.

Sharing information about Shah's proposed visit, state BJP chief Sanjay Jaiswal said that modalities are being finalised by the top leadership

"BJP is holding meetings with booth presidents in every district. Such a meeting is proposed to be held in Nalanda district in December. Amit Shah is among the prominent leaders to address workers on the occasion," he told the media.

Shah's proposed visit is being viewed as a significant step towards the BJP's 'Mission Bihar' in the wake of the 2024 general elections.

Shah's frequent visits to Bihar have, however, left leaders of the grand alliance led by RJD, JD(U), Congress and Left parties unfazed. Shah, who had remained out of political campaign during 2020 Assembly polls in Bihar, first visited the state Bihar this year on July 31 to participate in the all-India convention of frontal organisations of the BJP in Patna.

Shah's next visit was to Purnea and Kishanganj on September 23. Both the districts have sizeable Muslim population. It was said that his visit to the Seemanchal region was part of BJP larger game plan to strengthen its base there. On October 11, Shah visited, Jayaprakash Narayan's birthplace, Sitab Diara, where he unveiled a statue of JP, and made a veiled attack on Nitish and Lalu Prasad, two of JP's disciples.

Nagaland minister calls Himanta a 'super CM'

Assam and Nagaland have been embroiled in a boundary dispute for decades with no immediate solution in sight. But Nagaland minister Temjen Imna Along is confident that Assam's "super" Chief Minister Himanta Biswa Sarma will find a way. "We have super CM Himanta Biswa Sarma who cooperates with Nagaland and is trying to solve the problem," Along, who is also the Nagaland BJP chief, said. The Centre has taken Sarma's help in solving many issues in the Northeast, such as the Bru and insurgency problems. He is also working to resolve Assam's border disputes with Meghalaya, Arunachal and Mizoram.

After girls, meritorious boys to get scooty

Boys, who excelled in this year's class 12 exams conducted by the Assam Higher Secondary Education Council, may have another reason to smile. The state government has covered them under a scheme wherein meritorious students get a scooty each. Earlier, only girls who score first division were eligible. Now, boys who get at least 75% marks, have been included. The government will distribute the scooters to 29,748 girls and 6,052 boys. It also offers `16,000 cash to each meritorious student under the Anandaram Barooah Award for the High School Leaving Certificate. The government will spend `258.9 crore.

Foul play suspected in IIT student's death

The Assam government wants its West Bengal counterpart to conduct a probe into the circumstances surrounding the death of Faizan Ahmed, a third year mechanical engineering student at IIT-Kharagpur. Ahmed hailed from Tinsukia in Assam. After observing the body, his parents suspected foul play and demanded a CBI probe. They also filed a case with the West Bengal police seeking an investigation. Assam Chief Minister Himanta Biswa Sarma sent a letter to West Bengal CM Mamata Banerjee two days ago, seeking her intervention for a "thorough probe to unearth the truth leading to the death of the bright student."

200 SC families convert to Buddhism after assault over aarti

RAJESH ASNANI @ Jaipur

DISTRESSED over atrocities committed by the upper castes, over 200 families belonging to the Scheduled Castes have embraced Buddhism at Bhulon village in Baran district. Expressing their ire against the administration, the families took out a protest on Friday and immersed idols of gods and goddesses in Baithali river. The protesters raised slogans, and took a pledge propagated by Babasaheb Bhimrao Ambedkar.

"When Rajendra and Ramhet Airwal, belonging to SC community, were offering aarti to Goddess Durga on October 5, associates of sarpanch Rahul Sharma and Lalchand Lodha assaulted them. We lodged complaints with the officials, but no action was taken," Balmukand Bairwa, president, Baran District Bairwa Mahasabha Yuva Morcha, said. He also alleged that the Dalit families are being asked to leave the village.

DSP Pooja Nagar said that someone is trying to give political colour to the incident. "The victims lodged an FIR but the names of the sarpanch's aides have not been mentioned. The matter is under probe."

Pilots of Army chopper made Mayday call to ATC before crash in Arunachal

PRASANTA MAZUMDAR @ Guwahati

A technical or mechanical failure is suspected to have led to the crash of the Army's advanced light helicopter (ALH) in Upper Siang district of Arunachal Pradesh on Friday. The crash left all the five personnel on board dead.

Defence sources said that prior to the crash, the Air Traffic Control had received a Mayday call, suggesting a technical or mechanical failure. The sources said this would form the focus of the Court of Inquiry, which was ordered immediately after the incident.

"It is reported that the weather was good for flying operations. The pilots had more than 600 combined flying hours on ALH-WSI and more than 1,800 service flying hours between them. The aircraft was inducted into service in June 2015," a defence statement said.

The helicopter had taken off from Likabali in Lower Siang district in the state and crashed near Migging, south of Tuting, at 10:43 am.

The bodies of four personnel were retrieved on Friday while that of the fifth person was recovered on Saturday. The deceased were pilots Major Vikas Bhambhu and Major Mustafa Bohara, CFN Tech AVN (AEN) Aswin KV, Havildar (opr) Biresh Sinha and NK (opr) Rohitashva Kumar.

Joint teams of the Indian Army and the Air Force had located the crash site soon after the incident. The terrain at the crash site is extremely challenging, and is not connected by road. There are hills with steep gradients and thick jungle. Videos filmed by some locals of an adjoining village before and after the crash went viral on social media. In one of them, smoke is seen rising from a mountain. In another, the helicopter is seen hovering in the sky near the crash site.

"The Indian Army offers deepest condolences and stands firmly with the bereaved families," the defence ministry said in its statement.

This is the second incident of an Army helicopter crash in Arunachal Pradesh this month. On October 5, a Cheetah helicopter had crashed in a forward area near Tawang, killing one pilot and injuring another.

4 members of a family killed as landslide hits U'khand village

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Chamoli

FOUR members of a family were killed following a landslide at Pangarh village in Tharali tehsil of Chamoli district when they were all sleeping in their house. One person has been referred to hospital in a critical condition.

Speaking to this newspaper, Chamoli Superintendent of Police Shweta Chaubey said, "After the rescue operation with the help of SDRF and NDRF, all of the residents of the area have been evacuated from there. The deceased have been identified as Sunita Devi (37), Devanand (57), Dhananand (45) and Puli Devi (75)."

According to the police sources, one of the two houses that collapsed was empty while five members of a family living in the other house were buried under the debris.

The villagers blamed the administration for the incident, saying villagers were demanding relocation for a long time.

Prem Purohit, a local resident, said, "Landslides have been occurring for over a year, but the administration did not take care of it."

PM KICKS OFF JOB FAIR, 75K GET APPT LETTERS

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ New Delhi

PRIME Minister Narendra Modi on Saturday launched the 'Rozgar Mela' to recruit 10 lakh people and underscored his government's efforts to create jobs in the past eight years amid the Opposition's constant criticism on the issue of unemployment.

Over 75,000 people were given appointment letters for various government jobs in the first tranche on Saturday. In his speech, Modi acknowledged the challenges facing the global economy but said India will come out of the situation unscathed. "It is a fact that the global scenario is not very good. In many countries, inflation and unemployment are at their peak," he said.

The PM highlighted that India has leapt from being the 10th biggest economy to the fifth spot in past eight years.

15 dead, 40 injured as bus rams truck in MP

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bhopal

AT least 15 people were killed and 40 others injured after a private bus rammed into a truck from behind in Madhya Pradesh's Rewa district on Friay night.

The Uttar Pradesh-bound bus, mostly carrying migrant labourers going home for Diwali, was negotiating a mountain road when the accident happened. Police said the truck suddenly applied brakes after it hit another vehicle, leading to the bus crashing into it. According to Rewa district collector Manoj Pushp, 12 people died on the spot and two others succumbed while being taken to a hospital from Teonthar to Rewa. Later, one more person died at the hospital in Rewa.

The impact of the crash damaged the front portion of the bus and the bodies of the driver and conductor had to be pulled out with the help of gas cutters, Rewa SP Navneet Bhasin said. While most of the injured persons were admitted to a hospital in Teonthar, those who suffered serious injuries were shifted to Rewa, he added. President Droupadi Murmu and Prime Minister Narendra Modi expressed condolences. The Prime Minister has announced an ex-gratia of ₹2 lakh for the next of kin of each deceased and ₹50,000 to the injured.

C'garh potter's 'magical' lamp burns for 100 hours

EJAZ KAISER @ Raipur

AN innovative earthen lamp, dubbed as 'jadui (magical) diya' has brought a rural potter from Chhattisgarh in focus among buyers from all over the country. The unique traditional lamp, designed in an attractive shape of being mounted on an elephant, can burn continuously for over 100 hours without the need of a refill.

Tucked away in the remote area of Kumharpara at Kondagaon district of the state, Ashok Chakradhari, 53, can be spotted occupied endlessly through the day at his 'Jhitku-Mitki Terracotta Kala Kendra', various other earthen products. Some 12-15 people work in his team throughout the year. Chakradhari had earlier designed a diya with a flame that remained alive for 24 hours.

Chakradhari is slowly gaining popularity on the social media, and is delighted that his efforts to reintroduce the traditional craft are gaining wide appreciation.

"I also access YouTube channels for better understanding of techniques. The latest earthen lamp mounted on an elephant is actually an improvement over my previous product," he told this newspaper. "It has a dome-shaped receptacle to hold oil, which is attached with a tube-like mould to the base of the lamp that burns for over 100 hours," he added. According to Chakradhari, the principle it works on is simple physics, and continuous oil flow is transmitted to the lamp, which is made of soil mixed with a little river sand.

"People call it a magic lamp," Chakradhari said. He further added that the product is a result of his zeal combined with experience and acquired knowledge that have helped him in the creative field.

The cost of a single lamp, which weighs around 3 kilogram, is ₹2,000.

"We need to connect four separate parts into one piece using a traditional touch of design. I haven't put a high price for the 'magic lamp' as it has brought me so much fame," he said.

Chakradhari, however, is not able to sell as many pieces as he would like to. He lives at a remote place, located around 230 km from Raipur, and has no access to e-commerce platforms. Also, he is preoccupied with meeting the demands throughout the year. Now, some youths of Raipur pursuing business under the banner of 'loca-bazar' have facilitated online marketing for his products.

"My customers comprise the common man as well as VIPs. I usually sell my products from my home when the customers visit me to buy them for personal use or bulk orders. Transporting orders is a constraint for me due to issues like lack of proper packaging and risk of damage," he said.

Chakradhari said he always tries to blend his passion for indigenous products with innovation as value addition. "It is a bit laborious work, and the effort needs meticulous attention in handwork," he added. He also gained knowledge by participating in several exhibitions in different states. His growing popularity has helped in bringing recognition to his centre at Kumharpada where two governors have visited in recent years.

PK targets Nitish again, asks why CM not asking RS deputy chair to quit

RAMASHANKAR @ Patna

POLL strategist Prashant Kishor on Saturday renewed his attack on Bihar Chief Minister Nitish Kumar, asking him why he was not asking JD(U) leader Harivansh to resign from the post of Rajya Sabha deputy chairman if he had nothing to do with the BJP.

Kishor tweeted, "Nitish Kumar Ji, if you have nothing to do with BJP/NDA, then ask your MP to quit the post of Deputy Chairman of Rajya Sabha. You can't have it both ways all the time (Sic)."

Kishor had earlier claimed that Nitish has kept a line of communication open with the BJP through Harivansh.

Kishor is currently on his 3,500-km padyatra, which is seen as a precursor to the launch of his own party later.

On the other hand, former deputy chief minister and BJP Rajya Sabha MP Sushil Kumar Modi said, "BJP's doors are closed for Nitish and he will not find entry into the NDA." Modi said that Nitish had betrayed BJP twice and that the party is not ready to get ditched again.

Meanwhile, RJD leader Shivanand Tiwari targeted Kishor in a Facebook post, and claimed that he had sent the message to the latter his WhatsApp. Tiwari said, "The motive behind Kishor's padyatra is getting clear. The padyatra which was started with an objective to provide an alternative to two camps of Bihar politics is turning into anti-Nitish politics."

Tiwari added, "I have met Kishor twice on his initiative. I met him when he was carrying out a campaign to make Nitish the Prime Minister. His formula for making him the PM was peculiar. He gave the idea of RJD-JD(U) merger by arguing that if both parties merge, they can win 48-50 out of the 54 seats in Bihar and Jharkhand."

He said that Kishor said then that "the party that stood first or second in the next Lok Sabha election would be form the government at the Centre. If that was not the case, the new political entity after the merger would have the strong possibility of forming the government as it would be in the third position in the seat tally."

High drama as Hu escorted out of party congress

The frail-looking 79-year-old ex-prez was reluctant to leave the front row of proceedings where he was sitting next to prez Xi Jinping

BEIJING

FORMER Chinese president Hu Jintao was unexpectedly led out of Saturday's closing ceremony of the Communist Party Congress in a dramatic moment that disrupted the highly choreographed event.

Hu's departure was left unexplained, and the nation's censors appeared to quickly scrub any recent references to him from the internet.

The frail-looking 79-year-old seemed reluctant to leave the front row of proceedings at Beijing's Great Hall of the People, where he was sitting next to President Xi Jinping.

A steward attempted to take a sitting Hu by the arm before being shaken off. The steward then tried to lift Hu up with both hands from under the armpits.

After an exchange of about a minute, in which Hu spoke briefly with Xi and Premier Li Keqiang, he was led out of the hall.

A seated Xi was filmed holding papers down on the desk as Hu tried to grab them. Hu patted Li's shoulder as he left, as most of his colleagues stared firmly ahead.

The week-long Congress took place mostly behind closed doors, but Hu's departure occurred shortly after journalists were allowed in to cover the closing ceremony.

Ex-president Hu Jintao is assisted to leave the hall during the closing ceremony of the 20th National Congress of China's Communist Party on Saturday | AP

Hu's exit came just before the 2,300 delegates at the Congress voted unanimously to endorse Xi's "core" leadership position.

"We still don't know what caused Hu's actions, such as whether it was opposition to Xi's power or simply an unfortunately timed senior moment," said Neil Thomas, a senior China analyst at the Eurasia Group consultancy. "So without more information it's hard to draw solid conclusions about how this incident relates to Chinese politics."

Meanwhile, state media said China's former leader Hu Jintao was 'not feeling well' when he was unexpectedly removed from the closing ceremony of the Communist Party Congress on Saturday.

"Xinhuanet reporter Liu Jiawen has learned that Hu Jintao insisted on attending the closing session... despite the fact that he has been taking time to recuperate recently," Xinhua said on Twitter. "When he was not feeling well during the session, his staff, for his health, accompanied him to a room next to the meeting venue for a rest. Now, he is much better." AFP

XI'S 'CORE POSITION'

China's Communist Party endorsed Xi's core position on the Party Central Committee—a group of about 200 senior officials—as well as his rarefied status "in the Party as a whole"

All party members will have to 'acquire a deep understanding' of Xi's unassailable role and work to uphold it, the document says

Xi has long been referred to as the 'core' of the party, the resolution uses the designation more often and in more reverent terms than the previous charter

That may indicate a further consolidation of his untrammelled power at the top of the party and state

How is Communist Party changing its constitution?

China's Communist Party on Saturday approved a series of amendments to its constitution, strengthening the control of Xi who now appears set for a historic third term in power. Here's a guide to what has and hasn't changed

TAIWAN INCLUSION

For the first time, the party's charter will say explicitly that it opposes Taiwanese independence, according to the resolution

The constitution will be changed to include "statements on... resolutely opposing and deterring separatists seeking Taiwan independence"

The existing charter says only that the party will "work continuously to strengthen the unity of all the Chinese people, including compatriots... in Taiwan" as part of efforts to achieve the "reunification of the motherland"

NO 'XI JINPING THOUGHT'

Many analysts were waiting to see whether the party would enshrine the term 'Xi Jinping Thought' as its guiding doctrine, a move that would have placed Xi on a par with the likes of the country's founding leader Mao Zedong

The lengthier "Xi Jinping Thought on Socialism with Chinese Characteristics for a New Era" was first woven into the charter in 2017, and argues that the party must take a commanding role in Chinese society

The resolution Saturday referred to the ideology by its longer name, indicating that its status had not been significantly elevated

However, it lauded the creed as "the Marxism of contemporary China and of the 21st century". It "embodies the best Chinese culture and ethos of this era", the resolution said

Donald Trump ordered to testify in U.S. Capitol probe

WASHINGTON

LAWMAKERS probing the 2021 attack on the US Capitol subpoenaed former president Donald Trump to testify on his involvement in the violence, in a major escalation of their sprawling inquiry.

The summons came after the House panel of seven Democrats and two Republicans voted unanimously last week to compel Trump's appearance before investigators.

It requires him to produce documents by November 4 and to appear for a deposition beginning on or around November 14—the Monday after crucial November 8 elections.

"As demonstrated in our hearings, we have assembled overwhelming evidence, including from dozens of your former appointees and staff, that you personally orchestrated and oversaw a multi-part effort to overturn the 2020 presidential election and to obstruct the peaceful transition of power," the committee told Trump in a letter.

The letter accuses Trump of bidding to overturn the election despite knowing claims of fraud had been overwhelmingly rejected by more than 60 courts.

"In short, you were at the center of the first and only effort by any US president to overturn an election and obstruct the peaceful transition of power, ultimately culminating in a bloody attack on our own Capitol and on the Congress itself," it added.

Without confirming Trump had received the subpoena, his lawyer David Warrington said his team would "review and analyse" the document and "respond as appropriate to this unprecedented action." AFP

Ukraine accuses Russia of launching 36 rockets

KYIV

UKRAINIAN President Volodymyr Zelensky said on Saturday Russia carried out a "massive attack" on Ukraine overnight, following reported strikes on energy infrastructure that resulted in power outages across the country.

"The aggressor continues to terrorise our country. At night, the enemy launched a massive attack: 36 rockets, most of which were shot down... These are vile strikes on critical objects. Typical tactics of terrorists," Zelensky said on social media.

Air raid sirens blared across Ukraine twice by early afternoon, sending residents scurrying into shelters as Ukrainian air defense tried to shoot down explosive drones and incoming missiles.

"Several rockets" targeting Ukraine's capital were shot down Saturday morning, Kyiv Mayor Vitali Klitschko said on the Telegram messaging service.

Meanwhile, Russian-installed authorities in Ukraine told all residents of the city of Kherson to leave 'immediately' on Saturday ahead of an expected advance by Ukrainian troops waging a counteroffensive to recapture one of the first urban areas Russia took after invading the country.

In a post on the Telegram messaging service, the pro-Kremlin regional administration called on civilians to use boat crossings over a major river to move deeper into Russian-held territory, citing a tense situation on the front and the threat of shelling and alleged "terror attacks" by Kyiv.

Elsewhere in the invaded country, hundreds of thousands of people in central and western Ukraine woke up on Saturday to power outages and periodic bursts of gunfire.

In its latest war tactic, Russia has intensified strikes on the power stations, water supply systems and several other key infrastructure across the country. Agencies

Sunak gets support of 120 MPs for PM race

LONDON

RISHI Sunak supporters said on Saturday that the Indian-origin former chancellor has hit the threshold of 100 members of Parliament required to make it to the shortlist for the race to replace Liz Truss as the Britain's Prime Minister. He has received the support of 119 MPs, according to BBC. The figures could go up.

Sunak's tally continues to grow as ex-PM Boris Johnson flew back from his Caribbean holiday and his camp also claimed that he has the requisite minimum of 100 MPs for a possible leadership bid.

Neither Sunak nor Johnson has officially declared their intention to contest, with Leader of the Commons Penny Mordaunt the only candidate to announce her candidacy so far. However, Sunak has taken a comfortable lead with some heavyweight Tory ministers and MPs from different factions of the Tory party throwing their weight behind him and the betting odds also continuing to rise in favour.

"Rishi had the right plan in the summer and I think it is the right plan now," former deputy prime minister Dominic Raab said. "I think he is the best placed candidate to provide some stability, to provide confidence for the millions of workers and businesses up and down the country," he said.

Raab warned against a comeback by the partygate scandal-hit former leader Johnson, pointing out that the UK Parliament is still conducting an inquiry into whether he misled Commons over the lockdown law-breaking parties at Downing Street.

If any one candidate secures 156 MPs, then the race would be automatically narrowing to a shortlist of two, given the Tory MPs Commons tally of 357 and not enough to support a third candidate's minimum 100. PTI

INDIAN-ORIGIN PRITI PATEL ENDORSES JOHNSON

Priti Patel, who served as British Home Secretary in Boris Johnson's Cabinet, on Saturday endorsed her ex-boss as the best-placed candidate to replace Liz Truss. "Boris has the mandate to deliver our elected manifesto and a proven track record getting the big decisions right. I'm backing him in the leadership contest," she tweeted.

Medicines linked to kidney injuries not distributed

Singapore's Health Science Authority (HSA) stated on Saturday that the cough syrup and liquid-based medications that have been linked with kidney injuries and deaths in children abroad are not registered in the country. HSA gave a statement saying, "Based on our surveillance, these medicines have not been detected locally so far." World Health Organisation had earlier issued an alert over four cough and cold syrups made by India's Maiden Pharmaceuticals. They said the product could be linked to the death of children in Gambia. HSA further added that all liquid and syrup based medicine before going to sale is required to meet the international standards of quality, safety and efficacy. Discussion on reducing greenhouse gas emission

Indonesia's Environment and Forestry Ministry and the Faculty of Forestry at Hasanuddin University have discussed the implementation of the Forestry and Other Land Use (FoLU Net Sink 2030) policy in order to decrease greenhouse gas emissions. Dr Ir Ruandha Agung Soegardiman, Director General of Forestry Planning and Environmental Management at the Environment and Forestry Ministry emphasised on the need for a strong foundation on climate and environmental safety. He noted, "Everyone, across generations...and across sectors should collectively participate in thinking about innovation and solutions in all aspects of life." Rector of Hasanuddin University, Prof. Dr Jamaluddin Jompa, lauded the ministry's efforts in addressing the issue of climate change

Japan, Australia upgrade security pact against China

CANBERRA

JAPAN and Australia on Saturday signed a new bilateral security agreement covering military, intelligence and cybersecurity cooperation to counter the deteriorating security outlook driven by China's increasing assertiveness.

The upgrade of the Joint Declaration on Security Cooperation, a pact first signed in 2007 when China's rise was less concerning, was the major outcome of Japanese PM Fumio Kishida's meeting with his Australian counterpart Anthony Albanese in the west coast city of Perth.

That is the first such agreement Japan has struck with any country other than the United States. Japan announced Saturday that its Self-Defense Forces will train and take part in exercises with the Australian military in northern Australia for the first time under the agreement. In the context of that agreement, Albanese told reporters, "This landmark declaration sends a strong signal to the region of our strategic alignment."

Japan and Australia agreed to cooperate on energy security, which is threatened globally by Russia's invasion. Australia provides most of Japan's energy in the forms of LNG and coal.

They agreed to improve energy security by boosting Japan's access to LNG, hydrogen and critical minerals as both countries transition to net-zero greenhouse gas emissions by 2050.

The two countries also signed a critical minerals partnership that would strengthen supply chains for the Japanese manufacturers. AP

Imran Khan moves HC against disqualification

ISLAMABAD

FORMER Pakistan PM Imran Khan on Saturday challenged in Islamabad High Court the top election body's decision to disqualify him from holding public office for five years in the Toshakhana case for hiding proceeds from the sale of gifts he received from foreign leaders.

He lost membership of the parliament, as well as, barred from contesting elections for five years after the Election Commission of Pakistan (ECP) on Friday found him guilty of hiding the proceeds from the sale of precious gifts.

Lower house passes forced disappearances bill again

Pakistan's lower house of the Parliament has passed for the second time the bill seeking to declare forced disappearances a heinous crime. The bill was passed after Law Minister Azam Nazeer Tarar agreed to withdraw the controversial Section 514 from the Criminal Laws (Amendment) Bill, 2022, which provided for punishment to those filing false complaints. The section was removed after lawmakers had protested over it and refused to vote for the bill in the present form.

He filed an appeal in the Islamabad High Court (IHC) through his counsel Barrister Ali Zafar. Zafar appealed to the court to take up the case immediately for a hearing on Saturday.

The IHC accepted the appeal but observed that the matter was not urgent to be dealt with on the same day as the application was filed and set the hearing on Monday.

The Pakistan-Tehreek-e-Insaf (PTI) chief in his appeal said that the ECP had no power to make decisions on corrupt practices or disqualify people, requesting the court to suspend the body's ruling until the final decision on the appeal.

The filing of the appeal put Khan on a path to go through a gruelling legal battle to regain his political turf in the wake of his disqualification.

However, there is confusion about whether the five-year disqualification would apply only to the five years term of the current assembly, or whether the disqualification period would start from the date of the verdict by the ECP. The tenure of the current national assembly began in August 2018 and would be completed in 2023. Khan already tendered his resignation as a lawmaker in April but it was not accepted. PTI

RBI fails inflation mandate

Since adopting inflation-targeting regime in 2016, RBI never missed its mandate till 2020

SUNITHA NATTI

RBI Governor Shaktikanta Das is about to become the first governor to breach the central bank's legal mandate on price stability.

By next fortnight, he'll write to the government explaining the Monetary Policy Committee's failure for letting inflation out of the barn. The letter will be sent to the Ministry of Finance, through which the RBI is accountable to the Parliament.

Since adopting the Flexible Inflation Targeting (FIT) regime in October 2016, RBI never missed the mandate of 4%, with a 2% leeway on either side. It came close in 2020 following the Covid-19 pandemic, when headline inflation stayed above 6% for 11 months. By convention, Das' maiden dispatch should have arrived last year itself, but the government reportedly came to his rescue, discarding the April-June 2020 inflation data as unsuitable for computational purposes.

Unluckily for Das, the Ukraine war and the subsequent oil price shocks sent headline inflation soaring once again this year, breaching the target and triggering the need for an explanatory missive. But Das last month noted that any such communication will remain private, between RBI and the government. This is a departure from global central banking practices.

The Bank of England writes each time it misses the target and the UK's Chancellor writes back and the exchanges are placed in the public domain. In fact, the concept of open letters is an integral part of the communication and accountability process, and not a 'censure' on the central banks. Which is why the Central Bank of Turkey and others yielded even during the 2020 high inflationary episodes caused to Covid-19 economic measures.

Most recently, the Bank of Japan Governor Haruhiko Kuroda was asked by the nation's opposition party to take responsibility and resign for missing the inflation mandate and hurting the economy with a weaker yen. Until recently, the Reserve Bank of New Zealand -- the father of the inflation targeting regime – explicitly binded the tenure of the governor to the inflation target. Then there are countries like the US that even hold parliamentary hearings, where its Governors are called upon to explain policy slippages in person.

In contrast, RBI's proposed report will be kept private, side-stepping the accountability aspect. Ironically, it was Das who signed off the dotted line during his stint as Economics Secretary. According to a report by The Reporter's Collective, Das' letter to RBI then noted that the Governor must write to the government within one month of the failure to meet the inflation target and also place the report in public domain. However, the provision (placing in public domain) wasn't prescribed in the rules and was to be dealt with administratively.

Truth is, even though the mandate is between a central bank and its government, the former indirectly is in a virtual obligation with citizens. And credibility of an unelected central bank deepens only when it embraces transparency and openness on achievements and failures in equal measure. It's worth noting that admitting failures may stimulate needless public debate, but it doesn't always translate to reputational risks.

As Fracasso, Genberg and Wyplosz argued in a seminal paper on 'How do central banks write,' way back in 2003, merely announcing inflation targets and publishing forecasts isn't enough. The benefits only accrue to central banks that convince the public that their decisions are rooted in the relatively tight constraints.

Open letters aren't just about transparency, but could even help improve economic literacy. The general public has relatively little familiarity with central bank functions such as the lags of monetary transmission or even the fact that the assessment process gives less weight to past inflation than to future inflation. For instance, rBI doesn't change rates based on previous month's inflation data, but considering future outlook. Sadly, even media headlines scream about rate tweaks, each time inflation hits the skids.

Importantly, it's also essential to help understand the difference between cost-push and demand-side sources of inflation and the consequent policy responses. For instance, rising oil prices is a supply-side concern, even if temporary, and monetary policy has no business in reducing oil prices. That said, if higher oil prices threaten to percolate through to rising wages or inflationary expectations, otherwise called the second-round effects, central banks step in with rate hikes to protect the inflation target and guard against the risk of a cost-push spiral.

Section 45ZN of RBI Act defines failure to meet inflation target as well as accountability measures in case of failure

In accordance with the Regulation 7 of RBI MPC and Monetary Policy Process Regulations, 2016, a separate meeting is scheduled to discuss and draft the report to be sent to the government

The report will be sent within one month from the date on which the bank failed to meet inflation target

As per sub-sections (a), (b) and (c) of Section 45ZN of the RBI Act, when the bank fails to meet inflation target, it must report to the central government:

(a) the reasons for failure to achieve the inflation target

(b) remedial actions proposed to be taken by the Bank

(c) an estimate of the time-period within which the inflation target shall be achieved pursuant to timely implementation of proposed remedial actions

CRUDE WARS CHURN UP HEADWINDS FOR INDIA

THE international crude oil price war has just got sharper. Joe Biden and the US administration has decided to take on the Saudis for cutting oil production and the G7 block of advanced countries is pushing forward for a price oil cap on Russian crude.

India, an importer of 85% of its crude requirements, has been playing a balancing game, but now finds itself in the midst of the crossfire. With Brent crude prices expected to cross $100 a barrel, the economic headwinds are becoming stronger.

In July, this year, Joe Biden visited Jeddah, and in a controversial fist-bump diplomacy, made up with Saudi Arabia's de facto ruler Mohammed Bin Salman (MBS). US-Saudi relations had been on a freeze ever since journalist Jamal Khashoggi was killed at MBS' instance, but Biden justified the unpopular move arguing that the Saudis, as the world's largest oil exporters, had to be assuaged. Oil prices had to kept in check and Russia denied the advantage of oil revenue if the Ukraine war was to be won.

NEWSCOPE
GURBIR SINGH

OPEC production cut

Now the strained compromise is in tatters. The Saudi Arabia led OPEC+ group of 23 oil-producing nations, including Russia, have decided to cut oil production by 2 million barrels a day to push up prices. Earlier, fears of a worldwide recession had depressed prices to below $80 a barrel. More importantly, the Saudis refused to heed warnings from the US not to increase prices and form cartels with Russia.

Senator Bob Menendez, the influential chair of the US' Senate Foreign Affairs Committee, called for a blocking all arms sales to Saudi Arabia, and US President Joe Biden lost no time and,in an interview on 10 October, warned Saudi Arabia of unspecified "consequences".

On another front, the G7 block has been pushing for some time for a cap on Russian oil prices. The move has a two-fold objective. First, it is to cool energy pricescurrently spiraling out of control in Europe and elsewhere. Second, as crude prices have climbed, Russia has made a windfall selling discounted oil to countries like China and India. These revenues are funding Russia's 'illegitimate' war in Ukraine, which the G7 group wants to choke.

Higher oil export volumes, coupled with rising petrol prices, will boost Russia's earnings from energy exports to $337.5bn this year, a 38 % rise from 2021, it is estimated. In fact, the Helsinki-based non-profit think tank Centre for Research on Energy and Clean Air (CREA) says Russia's earnings from oil, gas and coal exports in the six months since it invaded Ukraine, at around $154 billion, have outstripped the total cost of the invasion.

Meanwhile, the move to cap Russian oil prices, first mooted mid-year by US Treasury Secretary Janet Yellen to reduce the country's oil revenues, may have the opposite effect. With the repeated cuts in OPEC's production, the increased volatility may lead to a spike in oil prices. Russia has warned that it will stop selling oil to any country that joins the oil price cap embargo. This will only choke supply further. A UBS estimate says if Russia makes good its threat, Brent crude could breach $125 per barrel.

Caught in the cleft

With no signs of the Ukraine war waning, the impact on rising crude prices on India is expected to be severe. As the world's third highest oil consuming and importing nation after the US and China, India spent $119 billion in FY 2022 on oil purchases, almost double - $62.2 billion – spent in the previous financial year. India's imports have also risen to 212.2 million tonnes in 2021-22, from 196.5 million tonnes in the previous year.

'Fuel and power' accounts for 13.20% in the Wholesale Price Index (WPI), and 'fuel and light' 6.8% in the Consumer Price Index (CPI). The cascading effect of oil on inflation cannot be underestimated. Last year in October, the Reserve Bank (RBI)said every 10% increase in crude oil prices could push domestic inflation by 30 bps.

In these circumstances, the reluctance in New Delhi to join the oil price cap alliance against Russia is understandable. Russian crude after all is delivered at a discount of $15-$20 a barrel, including cost of transportation. Union minister for petroleum and natural gas Hardeep Puri said the government "will have a look" at the oil price cap proposal; but internally the die has been cast.

The flip side is there will be long term consequences for breaking the G7 sanctions. Even though in value terms, Russian oil imports have risen phenomenally from just 6% at the beginning of the financial yar to about 18% currently, India continues to be dependent on other international sources. India's economic 'coupling' with the West too is far stronger than with Russia, and therefore the risk of US-led sanctions is more serious. As usual, we are again caught between the rock and a hard place!

Jio to deploy 5G network in high footfall areas

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@New Delhi

TELECOM operator Reliance Jio Infocomm Limited (Jio) on Saturday announced that it is introducing 5G services in high footfall areas such as educational institutions, religious places, railway stations, bus stands, commercial hubs, among other places.

The company said this will be in addition to JioTrue5G service, and the Jio Welcome Offer launched recently in Delhi, Mumbai, Kolkata, and Varanasi. "Jio teams are working round the clock to make additional cities go live and increase the availability of True5G-ready handsets," said the company in a statement.

India's largest telecom operator has started JioTrue5G-powered Wi-Fi services in the temple town of Nathdwara in Rajasthan. While Jio users will get this service without any charge during the Jio Welcome Offer period, non-Jio customers will also be able to try this service before they move to Jio to get the full and unlimited service experience.

"As stated earlier, 5G can't remain an exclusive service to the privileged few or those in our largest cities. It must be available to every citizen, every home, and every business across India. This is a step in that direction to enable every Indian with JioTrue5G," said Akash M Ambani, Chairman, Reliance Jio Infocomm Limited.

ICICI, Kotak shine in Q2; Yes Bank profit dips

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

BEATING street estimates, two of India's private lenders - ICICI Bank and Kotak Mahindra Bank - reported robust numbers for the September-ended quarter (Q2FY23). However, Yes Bank, which is charting a comeback to the big league, reported a sharp dip in its quarterly profit due to legacy issues.

The better-than-expected performance of ICICI and Kotak is in line with good show put up by other leading lenders such as HDFC Bank, the SBI, Axis Bank and IndusInd Bank.

ICICI Bank on Saturday reported a 37% year-on-year (YoY) growth in net profit to ₹7,558 crore in Q2FY23 as against a net profit of ₹5,511 crore reported in the year-ago period.

The bank's net interest income (NII), interest earned less interest expended, grew by 26% YoY to ₹14,787 crore in Q2FY23 from ₹11,690 crore in Q2FY22. The net interest margin was 4.31% in Q2FY23 compared to 4% in the same quarter of FY22 and 4.01% in Q1FY23.

Its non-interest income, excluding treasury income, grew by 17% YoY to ₹5,139 crore in Q2FY23 from ₹4,400 crore in Q2FY22. The bank's total advances rose by 23% YoY and 5% sequentially to ₹938,563 crore for Q2. The retail loan portfolio grew by 25% YoY and 6% sequentially, and comprised 54% of the total loan portfolio.

Mumbai-headquartered Kotak Mahindra Bank's PAT for Q2FY23 stood at ₹2,581 crore, up 27% from ₹2,032 crore in Q2FY22 and ₹2,071 in Q1FY23. Its NII for Q2FY23 rose to ₹5,099 crore, from ₹4,021 crore in Q2FY22, up 27%. Net interest Margin (NIM) was 5.17% for Q2FY23, higher than ICICI Bank and HDFC Bank. The gross NPA ratio for the bank fell by 16 basis points sequentially to 2.08%. Similarly, net NPA improved to 0.55% as of September 30, 2022, compared with 0.62% as of June 30, 2022.

The other private lender, Yes Bank, reported a 32% dip in September quarter net profit at ₹153 crore, as legacy bad assets come to haunt it, resulting in higher provisions.

The bank, which had to undergo an unprecedented bailout because of the high quantum of bad loans and is now on the way to normalisation, had reported a post-tax profit of ₹225 crore in the year-ago period. Its core net interest income jumped 31.7% to ₹1,991 crore during the quarter on the back of 11% growth in loans and 0.4% expansion in net interest margin at 2.6%.

PREPARATIONS OVER, CHALLENGES BECKON

Fascinating battle between pacers and batters as India look to begin campaign against Pakistan on a winning note in Melbourne

GOMESH S @ Chennai

FEBRUARY 15, 2015: The last time India played Pakistan on Australian soil. India men went into the ODI World Cup clash having not lost to Pakistan in a WC game at Adelaide and came out maintaining the record as Virat Kohli scored a century in the 50-over format. When asked about the winning streak, the then India skipper MS Dhoni was at his pragmatic best.

"The record is good, but it is something that I don't want to get into because there will come a time when we will lose, irrespective of whether it happens this World Cup, next World Cup or four World Cups down the line," Dhoni had said. The former India cricketer was right after all. Pakistan did beat India in the 2021 T20 World Cup and that plotted their early exit from the tournament too. Seven years have passed since that Adelaide night. India are all set to face Pakistan once again in Australia. This time, it will be their opening tie of the 2022 T20 World Cup at the Melbourne Cricket Ground on Sunday.

The trepidation of winning or losing in a World Cup match still exists. On Saturday, when the current captain Rohit Sharma was asked if Pakistan ending the streak and having an edge over them puts added pressure, the 35-year-old said he preferred to look at it as a challenge.

"I don't want to use the word 'pressure' because pressure is constant. It's not going to change ever. I want to use that word "challenge" a little more," he said, before adding, "This Pakistani team is a very challenging team. All the Pakistani teams that I've played from 2007 until 2022, they've been a good team. On that particular day, if you're good enough, you'll beat any opposition."

He believed that if they think too much of the past, they will not be able to focus on the present. He was aware that India and Pakistan do not play outside of World Cups and Asia Cups. And although India lost to Pakistan in the Asia Cup, Rohit looks at it as a positive as India played their neighbours months before the marquee event.

So, the challenge? For India, the biggest on Sunday evening would be pacer Shaheen Shah Afridi while batting. He was the one who rattled them in the United Arab Emirates than 12 months ago. Although the left-arm pacer had injury concerns coming into the World Cup, his spell against Afghanistan during a warm-up game cleared all the air. Shaheen was breathing fire with the new ball. So much so that Rahmanullah Gurbaz had to be carried off the field after facing a toe-crushing yorker. For India, the way Rohit, KL Rahul and Virat Kohli play him will be crucial.

As things stand, India are prepared for the challenge. While they may have retained the top three, there have been quite a few changes the way India has been playing the shortest format. To begin with, there is a change in the leadership group. Under Rohit and head coach Rahul Dravid, they have tried to take a modernised approach. They bat aggressively in the powerplay. They have a team management that takes data analysis seriously. They consistently use a floater, have a specialist pace-hitting finisher in Dinesh Karthik and rotate bowlers based on match-ups.

The biggest difference, perhaps, is the middle-order. Suryakumar Yadav is in the form of his life at No 4, followed by Hardik Pandya, Karthik, a left-hander in Axar Patel to mix up things and Rishabh Pant in the waiting if needed. They have shown enough promise to believe that even if Shaheen runs through the top-order on Sunday, they might not go down as they did in 2021.

The other challenge for India would be in the bowling department. They are missing that inimitable Jasprit Bumrah (injured). In his absence, they will have to juggle a few things here and there. They need to rely more on Mohammed Shami and Bhuvneshwar Kumar's new ball bowling against Pakistan. Because, much like India, Pakistan, too, have been a top-heavy side with Babar Azam and Mohammad Rizwan opening the batting and they haven't changed in the last 12 months. If the duo bat through, a repeat of 2021 could be inevitable.

While India seem better prepared among the two teams, the challenge for both is to start the campaign with a win as in a format like this, things could go downhill with one bad defeat. Because it's not about the pressure of getting back the winning streak against Pakistan. It is the challenge of having a good World Cup that holds the most significance.

Conway & Finn open NZ account with bang

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

FINN Allen, one of the most destructive openers in the shortest format, showed why he was preferred to Martin Guptill with a tone-setting 42 off 16 after being inserted in. It helped New Zealand to a big 89-run win as the second stage of the T20 World Cup began in dramatic fashion. The Kiwis, who always show up for ICC events, were rank outsiders when the match began. Not without a reason as they had last beaten Australia in Australian conditions in 2011 (15 matches across multiple formats).

Allen, one of the very few openers with a double double (striking over 150 while averaging 25+), went downturn very early in the piece as he took on Mitchell Starc. His thrill every minute 16 ball innings saw five fours and three sixes. At the other end, an unbeaten Devon Conway (92 off 58) carried the bat to take the 2021 finalists to an imposing 200.

The hosts had the firepower in front of a packed Sydney ground but never got going. David Warner lost his bails in a freaky manner and it was a sign of things to come. With both Trent Boult and Tim Southee — New Zealand's evergreen Men Fridays — keeping a lid on the run-rate, a challenging total quickly became the equivalent of climbing Mount Everest.

Mitchell Santner, an underrated spinner who possesses the rare quality of seldom bowling bad balls, ran through the middle order as he capitalised on a questionable batting display. All said, it was the perfect day for New Zealand as their main batters clicked while their lead bowlers hardly put a foot wrong.

For Australia, though, their NRR suffered a big hit as a result of the heavy defeat (-4.45 for those asking). It leaves them with a small margin for error in the remaining group games, beginning with the one against Sri Lanka on Tuesday.

Brief scores: New Zealand 200/3 in 20 ovs (Allen 42, Conway 92 n.o., Hazlewood 2/41) bt Australia 111 in 17.1 ovs (Maxwell 28, Boult 2/24, Southee 3/6, Santner 3/31). Afghanistan 112 in 19.4 ovs (Ibrahim 32, Ghani 30, Stokes 2/19, Wood 2/23, Curran 5/10) lost to England 113/5 in 18.1 ovs (Livingstone 29).

SURYAKUMAR VS NAWAZ

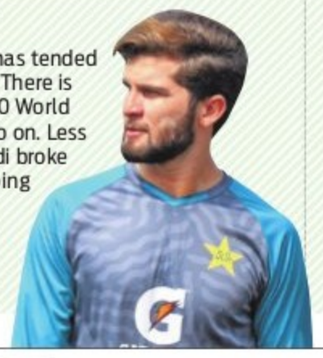
At this point, Suryakumar Yadav is India's best T20 batter. Every time he walks out, he seems invincible. But as numbers suggest, hard lengths at high-end pace and left-arm spin aren't really his strong suit. He bats at a SR of 109.09 against slow LAO. Mohammad Nawaz might want to take advantage of it, and they also have pacers who could test the Indian batter in Australian conditions.

SUPER SUNDAY

AS WITH ANY INDIA VS PAKISTAN CLASH, THIS ONE IS FILLED WITH PROSPECTS FOR SOME MOUTH WATERING CONTESTS. A LOOK...

SHAHEEN VS INDIA'S TOP THREE

It's no secret. The Indian top-order has tended to struggle against left-arm pacers. There is enough evidence: 2016 and 2021 T20 World Cups, 2017 Champions Trophy and so on. Less than a year ago, Shaheen Shah Afridi broke India's spine and he is capable of doing something similar. However, if the likes of KL Rahul and Rohit Sharma survive that initial burst, they will set an imposing platform.



PAK OPENERS VS SPIN

Babar Azam and Mohammad Rizwan have a set template. Bat steadily, see the new ball bowlers overs off and set the platform for the middle order at the end overs. But, in a World Cup that's likely to see big scores, they will likely have to play more attacking shots. If they decide to take the spinners on, it's likely a contest that might decide the fate of this match.

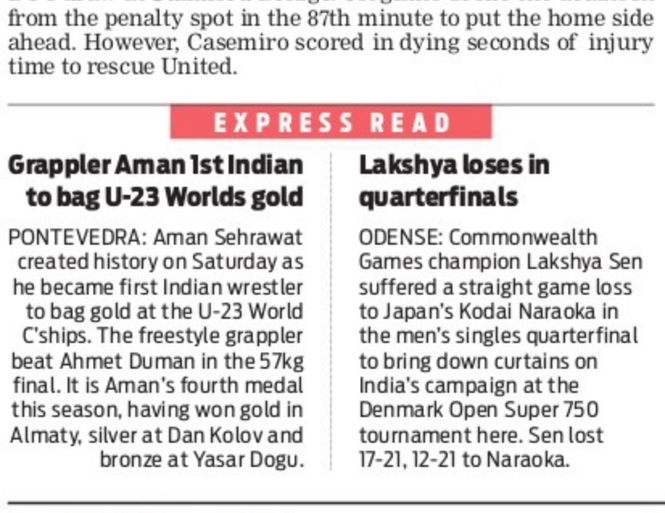
Liverpool crash again, City down Brighton



Liverpool players wear a dejected look after the match against Forest | AFP

AFP @ London

LIVERPOOL'S Premier League title challenge suffered another massive blow in a 1-0 defeat to Nottingham Forest as Erling Haaland returned Manchester City to winning ways in a 3-1 victory over Brighton. City's first defeat of the season to Liverpool last weekend looked to have kick-started the Reds' season, but Jurgen Klopp's depleted side slumped to a shock defeat at the City Ground. Forest began the day bottom of the table, but their first win since August lifted Steve Cooper's men to within one point of safety. Taiwo Awoniyi, who spent six years at Liverpool without making an appearance, scored the only goal 10 minutes into the second half.

Late on Saturday, Chelsea and Manchester United played out a 1-1 draw at Stamford Bridge. Jorginho broke the deadlock from the penalty spot in the 87th minute to put the home side ahead. However, Casemiro scored in dying seconds of injury time to rescue United.

3 more MP players included for Women's U19 T20 challengers

CHENNAI: After reported by this daily that only three players from the title-winning Madhya Pradesh side are included in the squads for the Women's U19 T20 Challengers trophy on Friday, three more players were added to the list by the selection committee on Saturday. Vaishnavi Sharma, the leading wicket-taker who took 23 scalps in 8 innings during the U19 T20, wicketkeeper Yamini Billore and Shreya Dixit will be joining Soumya Tiwari, Naina Rajput, and Kanishka Thakur in the Challengers. The U19 T20 Challengers is scheduled to begin in Goa on November 1.

Manish and Gowtham inspire K'taka

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Chennai

MUMBAI (Group A), Delhi (B), Karnataka (C), Himachal Pradesh (D) and Bengal (E) directly advanced to the quarterfinal phase of the ongoing Syed Mushtaq Ali Trophy. Six more teams — Vidarbha (A), Punjab (B), Kerala (C), Saurashtra (D), Chhattisgarh (E) and Haryana (C) — will advance to compete in three pre-quarterfinals. The three winners will then join the five quarterfinalists.

On Saturday, Karnataka confirmed their top spot with a five-wicket win over Haryana in Mohali. Chasing 126, they were never in any real danger, winning with 16 balls to spare, with Manish Pandey scoring an unbeaten 64 off 47 balls. Among the bowlers, K Gowtham impressed with figures of 3/17. Defending champions Tamil Nadu, meanwhile, didn't advance as they finished third in E. They needed a few results to go their way but the permutations didn't go in their favour.

Select results: Group C: Meghalaya 100/8 in 20 ovs lost to Kerala 101/5 in 12.2 ovs (Sangma 3/19); Haryana 125/9 in 20 ovs (Gowtham 3/17) lost to Karnataka 129/5 in 20 ovs (Manish 64; Anshul 1/21); Group B: Tripura 134 in 19.4 ovslost to Delhi 139/4 in 17.1 ovs (Rana 61); Manipur 117 in 19.5 ovs (Sanketh 3/19) lost to Hyderabad 120/0 in 14.3 ovs (Buddhi 72 n.o); Pondicherry 88 18 ovs (Amit 4/12) lost to Goa 89/4 in 12.4 ovs; Group E: Chhattisgarh 167/7 in 20 ovs (Amandeep 57, Harpreet 47) bt Odisha 80 in 17.3 ovs. Group D: Baroda 161/6 in 20 ovs bt Andhra 150/6 in 20 ovs (Shinde 42 n.o).

In the Group B clash in Jaipur, Delhi finished off the league stages with a comfortable win against Tripura. Their skipper Nitish Rana continued his all-round performance with a three-wicket haul before smashing a quickfire 61 to take the team across the line. In the other match, Hyderabad trumped Manipur to register a 10-wicket victory. After bundling Manipur out for 117, thanks to E Sanketh's three-fer, Buddhi Rahul came in as the impact player to smash an unbeaten 72 from 51 balls to take them home. Meanwhile, Pondicherry lost to Goa by six wickets.

In Indore, Andhra came close to beating Baroda while chasing 161 but fell short by 10 runs in the Group D match.

Narrow win for Hyderabad FC

AGENCIES @ Mumbai

HYDERABAD FC remained unbeaten in the Indian Super League (ISL) after a narrow 1-0 victory over Bengaluru FC at the GMC Balayogi Athletic Stadium in Hyderabad. Bartholomew Ogbeche ('83) got the only goal of the game to keep Hyderabad FC at the top of the league table. Both clubs headed into this match undefeated with four points on board after two matches. The two sides were quite solid at the back in the first-half with neither goalkeeper needing to make any saves. The two best chances of the half fell to Hyderabad FC's Javier Siverio.

Mumbai City FC held

MUMBAI City FC dominated possession but were held to a 1-1 draw by Jamshedpur FC in Mumbai. Lallianzuala Chhangte put the hosts in front after eight minutes before Daniel Chukwu levelled the score four minutes later.

Swapnil to the four, guns down Oly quota

FIROZ MIRZA @ Chennai

SWAPNIL Kusale managed to dodge the Covid-19 virus almost for two years but contracted the fearful disease this January. The shooter from Maharashtra served a 10-day isolation before getting back in the shooting range but the illness left him physically weak. Given his discipline — rifle 3 positions where a shooter shoots in kneeling, prone and standing positions — the 27-year-old needed to resolve the back problem he was facing since he got infected, as soon as possible.

With the 2024 Olympic qualifiers beginning this year, Swapnil immediately met a physiotherapist and started working on the issue. The one-hour exercises he did every day to fix his back issue for the past several months bore fruit as he bagged the third Paris Olympics quota place in the sport by finishing fourth in the men's 50m rifle 3p final at the ISSF World Championship in Cairo, on Saturday.

"Regaining physical fitness was the biggest task, especially the back problem as it was affecting my show in standing position," Swapnil told this daily from Cairo. "I was in Pune and got out to buy some essential commodities when I contracted Covid. Unlike in the past, the isolation period was not an issue but regaining full fitness demanded a strict regimen," he added. Hailing from Kambalwadi village, around 250km from Pune, Swapnil had undergone a 14-day quarantine period twice in 2020.

Earlier, he shot a qualification score of 593 to qualify for the eight-shooter final in second after China's Liu Yukun's 596.

Swapnil Kusale | TWITTER

He was on top after the kneeling stage with a score of 104.8 but slipped to third at the end of the prone stage with his total being 207.9. He, in fact, was in contention to make it to the gold-medal match too but a low 8.2 in his final shot in the eighth series during the standing stage meant Norway's Jon-Hermann Hegg pipped him for bronze with a 10.1. His aggregate score was 407.6 while Hegg finished with 407.9. Serhiy Kulish of Ukraine won gold while Pole Tomasz Bartnik finished second.

Speaking on the shot, which deprived him of a medal, Swapnil said, "No gun malfunction but apparently I delayed the shot, which cost me the medal." He is happy to earn a quota but affirmed that was not in his mind when he was competing.

He also took part at the National Games in Gujarat. He might not have won a medal there as he finished fourth but claimed the competition had prepared him well. "It was nice to get a competition ahead of the Olympic qualifying event. I may not have won the medal but the event helped me know the flaws I needed to iron out before leaving for Cairo."
